Yablonski Slayings—Looking for 'Tony'

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — Despite a guilty plea to murder charges and a detailed statement from a key defendant, authorities say their investigation into the 1969 slayings of United Mine Workers insurgent Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski and his wife and daughter is far from closed.

"The FBI has been looking, is looking and will continue to look for where the money came from to finance these slayings," said Thomas Henderson, a U.S. Justice Department lawyer, after Claude E. Vealey entered his guilty plea Wednesday in Washington County Common Pleas Court.

In a 15-page, 3,500-word statement that was read after the plea, Vealey said he and two accomplices were paid a total of $5,200 by a man he knew only as "Tony" to execute the killings. Vealey indicated that he never saw "Tony," that the killings and payment were arranged by a go-between.

The two key questions remained after the statement: Tony's full identity and his motive for wanting Yablonski killed.

In Washington, a spokesman for the United Mine Workers said there was no connection between the Tony in Vealey's statement and UMW President W. A. "Tony" Boyle, who defeated Yablonski for the union presidency after a bitter campaign that ended three weeks before the Yablonski murders.

Neither Henderson, who was assigned to the case in early 1970, nor special state prosecutor Richard Sprague would comment when asked whether they knew Tony's full identity.

Sprague, however, said it was conceivable there would be more arrests. He called Vealey's plea and statement, delivered Wednesday but given to the FBI almost immediately after Vealey's arrest in January 1970 "just the first step up the ladder."

"We have four others to prosecute," Sprague said, "and it could be more." Four persons besides Vealey are charged in the Yablonski slayings.

Some sources said authorities already had investigated three and perhaps more "Tonys," and that there was nothing in any of their backgrounds tying them to the case.

News of Vealey's plea and statement spread slowly through the rich soft coal fields of Appalachia.

In Charleston, W. Va., Dr. I. E. Buff, a physician who has campaigned for UMW reform and better mine safety and improved black lung benefits, said:

"There is someone with a great deal of intelligence that masterminded the job. There is someone with a great deal of money that is also implicated. That's who we should get."

Yablonski's sons Kenneth and Joseph, both sat only a few feet from Vealey as his statement was read into the record by an FBI agent in the hushed Washington County courtroom.

Anguish gathered in the eyes of both as Vealey's words told of how he and his accomplices stalked Yablonski for months before the slayings, and of how they finally broke into his stately, flagstone home in nearby Clarksville and pumped bullet after bullet into their victims from bedroom doorways. The bodies were found Dec. 31, 1969.

In other developments:

—Security, though extremely tight during Vealey's courtroom appearance, decreased Wednesday night at the Washington County Jail, where Vealey was being held earlier in a specially constructed, closely guarded maximum security area. That led to speculation that he might have been transferred to another penal institution, but local authorities declined to answer inquiries.

—Vealey's co-attorney, William C. Hart, said his client's guilty plea was designed to help him escape the electric chair.

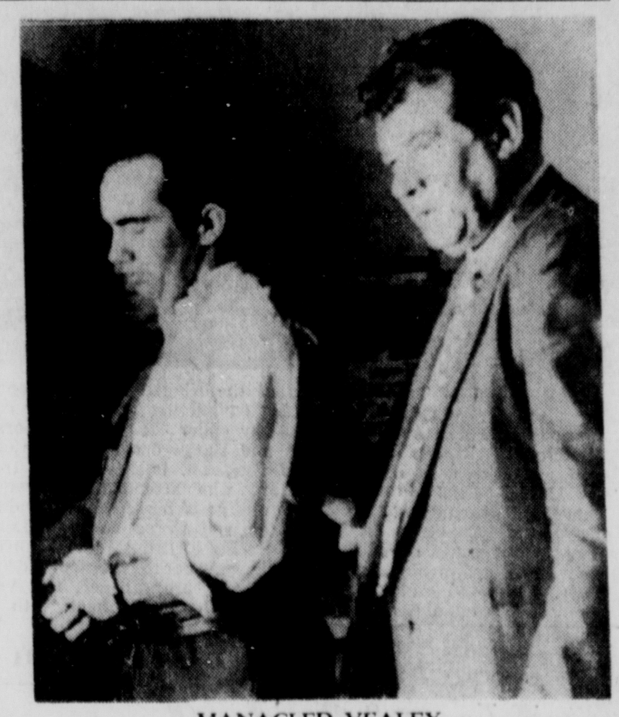

—Elmer Brown, Yablonski's running mate in the latter's unsuccessful 1969 bid to unseat Boyle, said he believed there were more persons and more money involved in the slayings than Vealey indicated.

Vealey pleaded guilty to three counts of murder, one for each of the victims.

In return for the plea and his statement, federal and state officials agreed to drop several secondary charges against Vealey—among them counts of conspiracy, burglary, larceny, robbery and breaking and entering.

If convicted of first-degree murder, Vealey could be sent to the electric chair or sentenced to life imprisonment. But if convicted of a lesser crime, the punishment would be left to the court—in this instance a special three-judge panel.

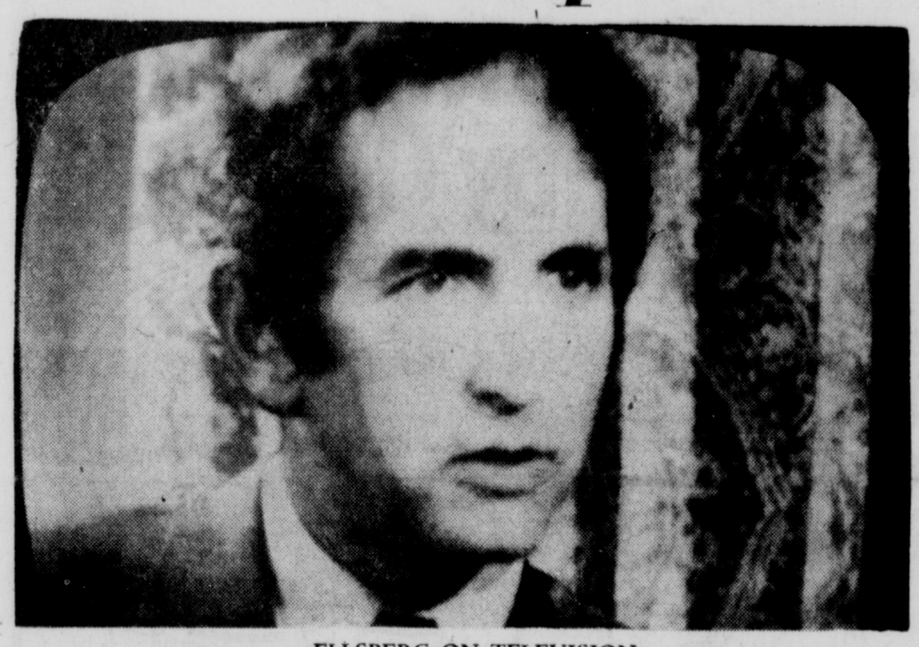

Vealey's co-defendants are Aubran W. "Buddy" Martin, 22, a laborer; Paul Gilly, 37, a former house painter; Gilly's wife, Annette, 20; and her father, Silous Huddleston, a 67-year-old retired coal miner. Huddleston is from LaFollette, Tenn., the others from Cleveland, Ohio.

Nixon Releases Report to Congress

'War Papers' Battle to Supreme Court

ELLSBERG ON TELEVISION
(UPI Television)

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A major constitutional legal battle over government secrecy and freedom of the press headed to the U.S. Supreme Court today after appellate rulings in government suits against The New York Times and The Washington Post over articles based on classified Pentagon Papers.

As a Los Angeles federal grand jury began an investigation into how the top secret Pentagon study of U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war was leaked, three other news organizations today printed articles they said were based at least in part on the 47-volume report.

An appeals court in Washington ruled Wednesday the Post could resume publication of its suspended series after 6 p.m. Friday. A similar court in New York said the Times could also resume but could not use any material the government contended was dangerous to national security pending a lower court review of those documents.

Former Defense Secretary McNamara battled Joint Chiefs of Staff on North Vietnam bombing dispute . . . Story Page 7.

The Justice Department, which has sought injunctions against the Times, Post and The Boston Globe on the ground that publication of the papers threatened national security, said it would appeal the Washington ruling to the Supreme Court. The Times said it would appeal the New York ruling.

Meanwhile, Knight Newspapers Inc., which publishes 11 newspapers, and the Los Angeles Times today printed articles they said were based on the documents. The Chicago Sun-Times also ran stories it said were drawn from the secret study and from "government documents."

In Los Angeles, a U.S. District Court granted immunity to two persons subpoenaed to testify before a grand jury probing what a Justice Department spokesman called possible violations of national security laws.

One of the two granted immunity was Anthony J. Russo, 34, a former employe of the Rand Corp., a Defense Department "think-tank." His lawyer said he wanted to challenge the federal immunity statute and Russo did not testify Wednesday.

A one-time Rand and Defense Department employe, Daniel Ellsberg, has been named by a former New York Times newsman as the source that gave the Pentagon study to that newspaper.

The Chicago Sun-Times said in today's editions that documents in the study revealed that a key plotter in the coup that ousted South Vietnamese President Ngo Dinh Diem informed the U.S. embassy 26 days prior to the coup that assassination of Diem was one of three courses being contemplated.

The Chicago newspaper also quoted "government documents" as revealing that Kennedy sent then Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson to Vietnam in May 1961 with orders to "encourage" South Vietnam to request U.S. ground troops. Diem resisted the idea, the Sun-Times said.

Roger Hilsman, a former State Department official, said Wednesday that two memos he wrote in 1963 about the possible overthrow of Diem were taken out of context and misinterpreted by the Sun-Times in its Tuesday editions.

The Sun-Times stories said Hilsman recommended Diem be overthrown if he entered negotiations with North Vietnam. Hilsman said the memos were "contingency documents" that had no connection with Diem's ouster in November.

In the court actions Wednesday, all nine judges of the Washington appellate panel agreed with a lower court in denying a government request for an injunction against the Post. Two judges filed partial dissent voicing serious reservations about printing some of the secret papers.

Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell termed the decision "regrettable." Post publisher Katharine Graham said it "sustains the great American tradition of freedom of the press."

The 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New York ruled the New York Times could resume publishing parts of the Pentagon study Friday but ordered further secret hearing on certain papers the government said were vital to the national security.

In Boston U.S. Judge Anthony Julian ordered the Boston Globe to place its copies of the secret study in a bank safe deposit vault, reversing his ruling Tuesday that the papers be impounded.

Meanwhile President Nixon turned the top secret Pentagon study on Vietnam over to Congress with leaders' hopes, but no promises, that more of it won't be leaked to the public.

In a scramble for access to the papers, Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., planned to press again for a House subcommittee vote today on demanding its own copy of the study for current hearings on security classification. The matter was postponed Wednesday by a 5-4 vote.

Leaders of both the House and Senate promised Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird Wednesday the documents would be kept under lock and key, though all 534 senators and House members will be able to read and study them.

Laird, however, got no promises that congressmen will not leak it.

"He was given no such assurances," said Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield.

Ellsberg: Four Policies the Same

NEW YORK (AP) — Daniel Ellsberg says the notion the secret Pentagon war study he reportedly leaked was designed to embarrass President Lyndon B. Johnson "will be quickly allayed" as the full document is made public.

Ellsberg, in his first public statement since publication of the study began, told Walter Cronkite in an interview broadcast Wednesday by CBS-TV the entire 47-volume history reveals a "sameness of policy throughout four administrations."

"The real lessons," he said, "really come from seeing the whole sweep of the history. There has never been any year when there would have been a war in Indochina without American money fueling it."

Ellsberg, former State Department and Pentagon analyst who helped assemble part of the study, was identified by a former New York Times reporter as the person who gave a copy of the secret document to The Times.

Cronkite reportedly interviewed Ellsberg in a private home in the Boston area and transmitted the film to CBS in New York through WHDH-TV, the network's Boston affiliate.

"It's really difficult to read those studies from the beginning and consecutively, and conclude that any one of those administrations would have behaved very differently than Lyndon Johnson did," Ellsberg said.

The study, which also covers the administration of Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower, "takes the issue out of politics," Ellsberg said, "and raises much more questions of whether we have been playing follow-the-leader a little too long."

He said the entire study of how the United States became more and more deeply involved in the Indochina war should be made public now rather than after American withdrawal because the threat of escalation is still U.S. policy, as it was in 1964 when Johnson planned to bomb the North.

Ellsberg, 40, now a senior research associate at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology's Center for International Studies, declined to talk about whatever part he might have played in the release of the secret document, Cronkite said.

Attorneys for Ellsberg said in Cambridge, Mass., Wednesday he "will of course appear" before any government agency that asked him to though he knew of no such request. The attorneys said they issued the statement at Ellsberg's request.

The United Press International reported former Sen. Charles E. Goodell disclosed Wednesday that Daniel Ellsberg, the man reported to have "leaked" the secret Pentagon papers on Vietnam to the New York Times, was one of several advisors on Indochina he had while in Washington.

Goodell, a liberal Republican from Jamestown and critic of the Nixon administration's Vietnam policy, said in a broadcast interview, however, that he was unaware of the existance of the 47-volume report until parts of it were published in the Times. He said Ellsberg never mentioned the report in the several meetings involving both men on the Vietnam situation.

Speaking by telephone from New York City, Goodell said the de - classification of the documents ordered by President Nixon was not only an attempt to appease the public, but to appease Congress as well.

City Hall Land Exchange For Housing Complex Road

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The city of Kingston and the Urban Development Corporation will exchange land in the area of the new city hall in Broadway East in order to provide access for a new road by UDC for its 131-unit housing complex just above the city hall site.

The two-lane road will run from Meadow Street just to the right of city hall (looking up the hill) into the UDC project area. The road will necessitate the taking of land for some 30 parking spaces of the 132 spaces provided in city hall plans.

Mayor Francis R. Koenig announced today that after meeting with Herbert Morris, UDC area director, Albert E. Milliken, city hall architect, and Louis Klein, legal representative to the city in the absence of his father, Aaron, away on vacation, and members of the Common Council, an agreement has been reached whereby UDC will provide the land for the 30 parking spaces from its property just up the hill from city hall.

UDC, according to the mayor, has also agreed to do rough grading for the parking on the steeply sloped site above city hall, just below St. Mary's Church off Broadway. Koenig said it will cost the city an additional $700 to $800 for the change in parking.

Koenig said that UDC has offered the city a 27-car parking lot immediately below St. Mary's Church on UDC land, to be built as part of the overall UDC project. The additional parking, Koenig said, could either be used for city hall or for the new $285,000 Rondout Community Center on Broadway and Spring Street, scheduled for completion in November of this year.

On another front concerning downtown redevelopment, Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo announced today that he has been notified that legal action against the city in regards to Joyce-Schirick VFW Post, 1386, building on the former Rice property at Wurts and Spring Streets, has been postponed until July 8. A group calling itself the Rice Park Citizens Committee is suing the city in an effort to block the VFW's construction of a new post home on that site. City Corporation Counsel Aaron E. Klein is expected home from a European vacation on July 5.

Gallo also announced the appointment of a Common Council committee to work with the Central Broadway Businessmen's Association on its proposal for a shopping mall in the mid-Broadway area.

Still 'Welfare' City' To Newburgh Senator

NEWBURGH, N. Y. (UPI)—Despite adamant denials from Governor Rockefeller's office, a conservative state senator maintained Wednesday that Stewart Field here could become a "welfare city" for New York City's ghetto areas.

"It's no basis in fact, it's just my opinion," said Sen. Richard Schermerhorn, R - Newburgh. "But everything points to what I believe."

The controversy began Tuesday when the freshman lawmaker told a local radio station (WFMN-Stereo) that the Metropolitan Transportation Authority could develop the former Air Force base into a public housing project, instead of expanding it into a major cargo jetport.

"It's just not so," a spokesman for the governor retorted in Albany. "There's no truth to it whatsoever."

The MTA labeled the idea "pure nonsense."

"I believe they're going to try to move the problems out of the depressed areas of the city, and they're going to move into our area."

The factors he cited included:

—Buying 11,000 acres to expand Stewart would make it twice the size of Kennedy Airport.

—A new community development article on the ballot this fall will make it easier for localities to build low income public housing.

—Powers of the Urban Development Corp. have been expanded to include building schools and municipal buildings.

—Airlines are reluctant to invest in passenger facilities, and the site is too far from Manhattan to make it attractive to passengers.

THE CULT PARADES—Five members of hippie-cult leader Charles Manson's so-called family start a five-day trek from Hollywood's Sunset Strip to the Hall of Justice in the Civic Center. The fifteen mile walk will be made on their knees "in witness to the second coming of Manson." Manson is now on trial for the 1969 murder of musician Gary Hinman. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

GRADUATES — Two detectives of the Kingston Police Department recently were members of a graduating class after completing a two-week course conducted at the New York State Police Academy in Albany under the joint sponsorship of the State Police and the Federal Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs. Major S. A. Chieco, a former BCI officer stationed in Highland and Kingston, is shown above (second from left) greeting Acting Police Chief Julius Glassman, who attended the graduation exercises held at the State Police Academy. Chieco is in charge of State Police training at the Academy. Local graduates were Sergeant Slover (L) and Detective Meyer Levy (R). The course covered all aspects of narcotics identification, testing of drugs, surveillance, undercover work, the history of drugs, medical effects of drugs, search warrants, drug laws and all related subjects. Glassman will soon implement a program of in-service training relating to narcotics and dangerous drugs within the police department, with Slover and Levy instructors.

Bullet-Punctured Speed Chase

By WALTER S. CLARK

ELLENVILLE

A high-speed police chase sparked by a shot fired by a patrolman towards an alleged truck thief continued along highways in this section of Ulster County for more than 18 miles Wednesday afternoon before the pursued vehicle was overtaken and the driver taken into custody.

State Police and sheriff's deputies, who had been alerted to assist, set up roadblocks but the capture of the fleeing man took place before the barricades were reached.

Subsequently, 39-year-old John Kendrick of 172 Broadway, Monticello, was cited for reckless endangerment first degree, a felony, and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

Kendrick, a hotel employe, was arraigned on the reckless endangerment count before Wawarsing Town Justice Harold Sashin. A plea of innocent was entered and the defendant was committed to the county jail without bail pending a hearing Tuesday, June 29 at 7 p.m.

The man will face the other charge before Village Police Justice Ronald W. Elias.

It was about 1:45 p.m. yesterday when Philip Glickman, a carpenter, of 81 Hoffman Street, Kingston, was working on Center Street this village, when he spotted a man entering his pickup truck. The man, later identified as Kendrick, sped off heading north on Main Street.

Glickman notified police and Officer John Corwin took off in a patrol car in search of the stolen vehicle. Corwin said later that he drove some distance outside the village on Route 209 and when he didn't see the truck, headed back to Ellenville. Meanwhile, he received a description of the truck and the man.

Minutes later, the truck passed the police car. Corwin turned around and took up the pursuit at speeds ranging between 80 and 90 miles an hour. "Everytime I pulled up alongside the truck the driver tried to force me off the highway," Corwin said.

Corwin said he fired a warning shot skyward but the truck continued on. The chase went on along Route 209 and Route 44-55, until the driver of the truck lost control and the vehicle spun around.

The officer leaped from his car with gun drawn and took Kendrick into custody. "Ironically," Corwin said later, "I knew Kendrick, and he knew me, but I didn't know who I was chasing and he didn't know it was me after him. Kendrick said if he had known it was me pursing him he would have stopped."

Varifab Leaves High Falls

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

HIGH FALLS

Varifab Inc., announced this week that it has phased out its operation at High Falls, closed its plant, furloughed about 160 production employes and moved to Old Greenwhich, Conn.

Company President Robert N. King said the recent closing of the High Falls plant was part of a previously announced reduction in Varifab's facilities and personnel to a level commensurate with its present operations.

A spokesman for the firm said about 20 employes will be retained and will continue plant operations in space leased from its parent company, Condec Corp., at Old Greenwhich.

The firm will retain title to its plant at High Falls and advises in the announcement that they hope to reopen the plant here when business conditions again are favorable.

It is estimated that the lost payroll impact to the area will exceed $700,000.

King stressed that the High Falls plant will be reactivated if business conditions warrant.

The firm will continue to market, from its Old Greenwich facility, the Vari-Punch line of source data collection equipment employed mainly in payroll and inventory control applications.

The company's common stock is traded Over-the-Counter.

A spokesman of the firm said there is a backlog of orders that will be processed at Old Greenwhich but it was necessary to cut overhead in order to keep operating.

The business was founded in 1953 as Ulster-Dutchess Manufacturing Corp., and operated a small machine and tool business. In 1960, it became Varifab Inc., and in 1967 became a subsidiary of Condec Corp.

Between 1953 and 1960, the firm occupied an eight-room private house in High Falls adjacent to its plant which was used as an office and headquarters. A portion of this was seriously damaged in a fire and the business was consolidated in the new High Falls plant.

The firm has been in previous financial difficulties and at one time had to seek relief under Chapter XI and was enjoying law. In 1965, the firm threw off the restrictive chains of Chapter XI and was enjoying a backlog of orders announced as the highest in the company's 12-year history.

At that time, the firm had 140 employes and an annual payroll exceeding $675,000.

Red Hook Supervisor Responds On One-Man Assessor Criticism

RED HOOK

Red Hook Supervisor Warren Simmons has responded to recent statements by residents complaining about the already adopted one-man assessor system, which will become operative in October.

Several persons complained at the last Town Board meeting, and letters to area newspapers have followed condemning the town for not holding a referendum to retain the elected assessors.

Simmons, in responding to this dissension, said that the criticism comes from "unqualified people who have not taken the time to understand the board's choice." Many of those complaining were members of the Red Hook Taxpayers' Association.

Simmons explained that informational meetings on tax mapping and reappraisal, meetings on the new state law concerning assessors, and Town Board meetings were all held and publicized.

He also gave a release to the news media March 11 explaining the town's decision to go with the one-man appointed board.

He said that a contributing reason was the fact that the election would cost the town about $2,800; the present Board of Assessors "did not feel qualified or able to take the required training course prescribed by the State Board of Equalization and Assessment."

Thus, the Town Board decided in February on the appointed system. And another fact pointed out by Simmons was that it is only the matter of a few years before the town reaches 10,000 population when the appointed assessor becomes mandatory. The current population is about 8,000.

He also asked that any past assessors who are interested in becoming a full-time assessor contact the board. Qualified men will also be sought for the five-man review board.

RED CARPET OPENING — Love Story, the year's highest grossing motion picture and the most critically acclaimed film in years had its Ulster County premiere, a Red Carpet opening Wednesday night at the Mayfair Theater, Route 9W, Town of Ulster. The contemporary tear-stainer stars Ryan O'Neal, America's latest matinee idol and Ali MacGraw, both Academy Award nominees. The film is based on a love story of the seventies from Eric Segal's popular novel. The film was recently nominees. Love Story will play an extended engagement at the Town of Ulster Walter Reade Theater, Route 9W. Local and area celebrities and businesmen were on hand for the opening night emulating an old-time Hollywood-Broadway-type premiere. (Freeman man photo by Kruh).

Milan's Zoning Change Denounced By Dutchess Planning Department

MILAN

A major change in the Town of Milan's zoning, making a long stretch of Route 199 open to commercial development, has been strongly denounced in a statement from the Dutchess County Planning Department.

The town will hold a hearing on the controversial change Wednesday at the town hall.

Such a change would substantially change the nature of this rural township east of Red Hook.

Planning Commissioner Henry Heissenbuttel noted in his report that "unsightly, unsafe and confused strip commercial development such as found in other areas of Dutchess County and the Hudson River Valley should be discouraged in the Town of Milan."

While it is highly doubtful that the County Planning Department would ratify this proposed change, the Town Board has the authority to overrule an unfavorable decision by a 4-1 margin.

Heissenbuttel continued, "There are already 1.3 miles of road frontage zoned for highway business with a proposed addition creating an additional 2.1 miles of such frontage."

"As zoned, this would permit 39 different business establishments to locate along Route 199 with as many as two points of access for each one," he said.

And the commissioner added that the plan would provide land "far in excess" of the town's needs for commercial devleopment.

He said he agreed with the town's comprehensive plan that strip zoning would "not only maximize land use conflicts, increase hazard along the highway and lessen the efficiency of the road, but also cause difficulties in attempting to develop in any depth away from the highway because of physical limitations."

Flood Control Work Underway in Ellenville

ELLENVILLE

Work is now underway on the Ellenville Flood Control Project, according to Village Manager Lawrence E. Eyres.

Work is presently centering on the Beerkill Creek area of the village. The project is scheduled to take about 2½ years, according to Eyres, lasting into 1973.

The principal contractor for the project is the Servidone Construction Corportion of Castleton. They are now installed in Ellenville, as is Thomas MacDonald, the project engineer for the Corps of Engineers, who will oversee the project.

Eyres said that MacDonald had been in conference with engineers for the village, the New York Telephone Company, and Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp., to pinpoint utility lines and coordinate the work that the utilities and the village will have to do in conjunction with the project.

Eyres said plans were now being made to handle the flow of traffic during periods of construction involving heavily travelled roads. This will be a major problem, as one of the bridges over which traffic will be interrupted is the Beerkill bridge on Route 209.

Hospital Making Study of Visiting Hours

RHINEBECK

Visiting hour regulations are being studied at Northern Dutchess Hospital, Rhinebeck, according to Michael C. Mazzarella, administrator.

"We currently have a very lenient visiting hour policy," he pointed out. Visitors are welcome from noon to 8:30 p.m. continuously.

This was stated as being because the hospital staff recognizes "the importance of visitors to the welfare of the patients."

"However," he continued, "when the visiting hours are abused, the benefit to the patient drops to zero." The current policy has been in force for many years.

The area drawing the ire of the nursing staff and patients as well, is the visitor who comes too early, and the visitors who crowd into the rooms.

According to posted regulations, visitors are limited to two per patient at one time.

The hospital has taken a "wait and see" attitude toward any immediate action on revision of the visiting hours.

"We hope that bringing this to the attention of the public will be all that is necessary to solve this problem," Mazzarella said.

Chief Reviewing Plans For Summer Traffic

ELLENVILLE

Ellenville Village Police Chief William C. Trapnell is now reviewing plans for traffic control for this summer, according to Village Manager Lawrence E. Eyres.

As was reported in The Freeman, the Ellenville Village Board has failed to adopt a traffic plan for this summer, despite agitation to do so from Eyres since last February, and Trapnell is apparently on his own.

Eyres and Trapnell are scheduled to meet with R. M. Gardeski, Region 8 traffic engineer, of the State Department of Transportation, next Tuesday. They will discuss the striping of the village streets, and the coordination of the village traffic lights with Trapnell's traffic plans.

Dutchess Day Center Accepting Applications

RED HOOK

Northern Dutchess Day Care Center is now accepting applications for summer admission.

The center provides classes for preschool children between the ages of three and six in an educational program designed for the care of the child and oriented toward permitting each child to develop his own abilities in preparation for public or private school admission.

Licensed by the State of New York, the center has a qualified staff and offers varying programs to meet each child's needs.

The center is open from 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Monday through Friday, in modern facilities at 46 S. Broadway.

Fees are based on a sliding scale. Applications may be obtained by calling the center director, Miss Trudi Daddi.

Mohawk Lists Losses for May

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — Mohawk Airlines says it lost $405,000 in May on revenues of $5.9 million.

A company spokesman said most of the loss was attributable to the generally slow business conditions in most of the U.S. airline industry and to start up costs incurred by the resumption of service after a five-month pilot's strike.

Last year the company showed a $376,000 loss in May on revenues of $6.1 million.

The new figures, released Wednesday, brought Mohawk's losses so far this year to $1.6 million. Revenues reported to date are $15.6 million.

The company said its 10,041 flights during May carried 181,048 passengers, averaging 41.4 per cent of capacity.

Uncertain Future For Residency Law

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York's welfare residency law was only a day old today and already it faces an uncertain future.

The federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare objected to the bill before Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller signed it Wednesday, and court challenges from other groups have been promised.

The U.S. Supreme Court twice has thrown out welfare residency laws of other states—its last decision coming 10 days ago. There also were indications that the new law would affect relatively few people and save a comparatively small amount of money for the state.

Under the law, welfare officials must deny benefits to newcomers who have lived in the state for less than a year. This would apply to new applications for benefits after the effective date of the law—Wednesday.

These newcomers could be given token aid, such as a meal, and a bus ticket home. The law would impose the residency requirement over a five-year emergency period.

Rockefeller also signed legislation Wednesday creating the state position of welfare inspector general with authority to crack down on any welfare abuses by welfare officials and those on relief. This measure and the residency requirement were part of his welfare reform package passed by the legislature in the last session.

State welfare officials say the new residency law would have affected about 12,000 persons a year in each of the last five years, had it been in effect. This is less than 1 per cent of the state's 1.8 million welfare population.

The savings for the state were estimated at $4 million a year. The state's welfare budget this year is $1.3 billion.

Rockefeller vetoed a residency requirement in 1960 during his first term as governor. "Over the years of great migration into our state," he said at the time, "New York has steadfastly maintained its humane policy of erecting no residency ban as a requirement for public assistance or care."

He proposed the residency requirement this year with the comment: "The continued influx of persons in need of public assistance threatens the capacity of state and local government to provide and finance adequate levels of public services for those residents here as well as those coming into the state."

Rocky Vetoes Bill on Indian Land to Village

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller announced today his veto of a bill that would have given the Village of Fort Covington clear title to a parcel of land in Northern New York. The legislation had been vehemently opposed by St. Regis Mohawk Indians.

The controversial measure prompted the Indians to send a special delegation to the Capitol in May, after it was passed almost unnoticed in the Assembly and Senate.

The Indians claimed that the six-acre land parcel belongs to them. The disputed land is about five miles from the St. Regis reservation in Franklin County.

Rockefeller cited the background of the dispute in his veto message, saying the state traces its title to the land from an 1816 treaty while the Indians contest the validity of that treaty.

"The St. Regis Mohawks claim that the land was obtained by the state in violation of the Trade and Intercourse Act of 1970 . . . which prohibited any purchase of Indian lands pursuant to treaty unless it was entered into in the presence and with the approval of the United States commissioner," Rockefeller noted.

The Indians said no U.S. Commissioner participated in various treaties between their people and the state, including the one in 1816.

Rockefeller said he decided to veto the bill because the Indians planned legal action in relation to the land parcel and because the legislation did not provide sufficient safeguards to assure that the land would be used for public purposes.

The bill was sponsored by Republican Assemblyman Glenn Harris of Canada Lake. The assemblyman's district includes the village and the Indian reservation.

Harris said during the session that he was asked by village officials to sponsor the legislation. When village firemen sought bank financing to modernize their headquarters on the land, the bank asked for a clearer title.

After the Indians protested at the Capitol, Harris withdrew the bill temporarily so that he could weigh the arguments against it. He later decided, however, to leave the final decision to the governor.

Rockefeller approved, meanwhile, a measure that lowers the voting age to 18 for St. Regis tribal elections and extends the voting right to women. The governor said these changes had been requested by the Tribal Council.

Blast Rips Tunnel, Fear Expressed for 16

SYLMAR, Calif. (UPI)—A natural gas explosion ripped through an underground tunnel today, stranding at least 17 men where they were working two miles from the shaft entrance.

At least one man was killed.

"We have 17 names of the men (down there). One is dead and it doesn't look good for the other 16," said Fire Department Inspector Jim Haworth.

Other rescue attempts were delayed because of heavy smoke and dust in the five-mile long tunnel.

"There have been no sounds from the tunnel—we don't know if they're dead or alive," said a fire department spokesman.

Earlier reports that the blast collapsed an air shaft were retracted by the fire department. The spokesman said the shaft had been only slightly damaged and a rescue worker was lowered through it to the tunnel floor—about 160 feet down. However, his first attempts to find the workers were unsuccessful because of the smoke and his air tanks 30-minute oxygen limit.

The men in the tunnel were described as employes of the Lockheed Ship Co., constructors of the shaft.

The tunnel was part of the massive Feather River water project to bring water from Northern California to the south.

Public Employer Coalition Is Formed in Dutchess

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP) — A Coalition of Public Employees has been founded by seven public employee unions in the Dutchess County area.

The members say they will honor each other's picket lines and provide financial support for each other during job actions.

Teachers', Postal Carriers' and Firemen's unions are represented in the new coalition as are two police benevolent associations and two local chapters of the Civil Service Employes Association.

A spokesman for the group, Joseph Whelan, who heads the local chapter of the National Association of Letter Carriers, said Wednesday that the support members might give to others on strike could include refusal by letter carriers to deliver mail to picketed public buildings.

"We will ask our members to observe all picket lines, Whelan said.

'Hot Dog Tax'—Could Mean 20-Cent Coffee

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — New York consumers will agree that what the state doesn't need is a good, "20-cent cup of coffee."

Such an item is possible, though, after July 1, when the state's new "hotdog tax" takes effect.

The tax, approved by the legislature to cover increased education spending, means that the sales tax will now apply to meals under $1. — everything from hotdogs to ice cream cones to Swiss steak platters from microwave ovens.

The tax may be irritating to snack bar and lunchroom patrons,, but to the fast-growing vending machine industry, it is a major headache.

The reason is there are no machines that can accept the penny tax that will be required on a 15-cent doughnut or cup of coffee.

"We can't collect the tax, but we have to pay it", explained Herbert Luckower of Harrison, president of the state vendor's association.

The only option, he said, is to raise prices a nickel or a dime, or try to lower the commissions paid to companies which handle the machines.

"To go up a nickel on certain items would be the death knell for them," he said. "It would cause too much of a backlash among employes; our accounts would say 'Take the machines out; who needs them?' "

John Zei, the eastern counsel to the National Automatic Merchandising Association, said price increases will probably be selective.

"I can see a tremendous consumer reaction against a 20-cent cup of coffee", the Washington-based attorney said. "We'll probably have to absorb the tax in other items."

The trouble is,. he said, soft drinks and coffee account for about half the $600 million annual vending sales in New York State.

Cigarettes are another 30 per cent, leaving only 20 per cent from pastries, sandwiches, and candy.

Zei said the industry even considered a lawsuit against the New York tax, but dropped the idea because courts have upheld similar levies in other states.

The only bright spot for consumers is that it may take 4-6 weeks to convert machines for higher prices.

As for restaurants, they already collect the tax on meals over $1, so will only have to extend the tax on July 1.

For grocery stores, however, the task will be deciding which items are covered by the hotdog levy.

Most groceries will continue to be exempt from the sales tax. But just as candy and soft drinks are now taxable, the levy will have to be paid on non-grocery items.

Fred W. Tierney, head of the state sales tax bureau, said the hotdog tax will apply to items sold "in the form, condition, quantity, or packaging not commonly sold by grocery stores."

Generally, the tax will apply to items that are heated, or are in a ready-to-eat form. Thus:

— There's no tax on a frozen chicken pie, but there is on a small barbecued chicken you can eat at the supermarket.

— The tax will apply to ice cream cones, since they are not commonly sold by grocery stores;

— A single bag of potato chips will be taxed at a drive-in, but not if bought in a six-pack at the store;

Since most people in the state must pay a seven per cent sales tax, the "hotdog levy" will apply to items costing 11 cents or more.

For the few persons in areas with only a four per cent tax, it starts at 13 cents.

The tax, originally requested by Mayor Lindsay for New York City, was made statewide by the legislature to cover last-minute spending increases for education.

It will mean an estimated $35 million for the state; $20 million for New York City, and $16 million for all other localities.

Rabbi Eichhorn Speaker

Baccalaureate on Sunday

KINGSTON

The Baccalaureate service for the Kingston High School Class of 1971 will be held Sunday 2 p.m. at the Community Theatre with Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn of Temple Emanuel as guest speaker.

Invocation will be given by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Francis P. Brennan, pastor of St. Peter's Church, a graduate of Kingston High School Class of 1929. Another KHS alumnus, the Rev. George D. Wood, will give the benediction. The Rev. Mr. Wood, a retired Reformed Church minister who resides in Saugerties, graduated with the Class of 1916.

The scripture lesson will be given by the Rev. George W. Baker, pastor of St. Mark's African Methodist Episcopal Church.

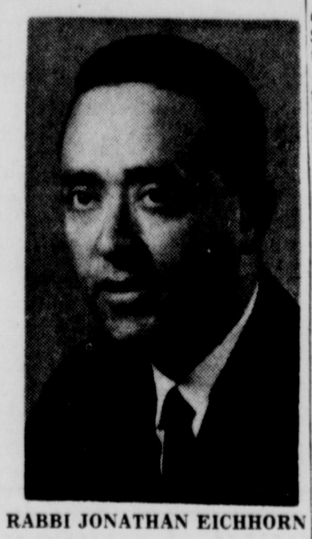

Rabbi Eichhorn's topic will be A Little Lower Than the Angels. Musical selections will be provided by the Kingston High School choir.

Arrangements for the annual baccalaureate service were announced this week by the Kingston Area Council of Churches through its president, the Rev. Donald T. Buddle, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

Commencement exercises for this year's KHS graduates will be held Wednesday night, June 30, at 8 o'clock at Dietz Stadium.

The ceremonies will be shifted to the Kate Walton Field House if the weather is inclement.

Members of Kingston High School Class of 1971 may pick up caps and gowns for graduation at the KHS Music Room Friday from 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

When Statesmen Listen

The Arms Control and Disarmament Agency reports that $294 billion was spent last year on armaments—$130 billion by NATO powers, $71 billion by Warsaw powers and $30 billion by all the rest of the nations of the world.

Therein is probably the real reason for the strategic arms talk, the interest on both sides in a mutual troop withdrawal from central Europe, and the soundings on elimination or reduction of chemical and biological warfare.

For the people of the world are making known their feelings that the price of the balance of terror between the super powers and their respective allies is becoming onerous and they would like to shed it.

This does not mean that overnight, there will be disarmament in the world, or even a halt to the arms race. The leaders of the United States have always realized that there is something else in life than arms and they must shape things so that the world can be secure while they go on to other meaningful things.

The rub is that from the beginning of time, no one has yet found a formula for security without arms. And with the suspicion abroad in this nuclear age, security is an even greater challenge to both sides. Even if nations agree on various forms of disarmament, the state of technology is such that there is always a chance that one or the other, or both, may come up with something, immediately after, which renews the arms race all over again.

Until human nature changes drastically and we can believe and trust each other, the best we can hope for in the current interest in disarmament, is a small holiday from increasing the mutual burden. But as we in this country have allowed the Soviets to get ahead in deadly nuclear weaponry, we must cheerfully help to restore the balance, or rue the day.

Jobs for Veterans

No undertaking by President Nixon is more deserving than his drive for jobs for veterans. That 370,000 veterans are unemployed, at a rate of 10.8 per cent of these between 20 and 29 compared to those of the same age who did not serve in the armed forces, is a disgrace the nation must wipe out.

There is evidence, the President pointed out in instructions to Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson, that the most serious problem is experienced by those with educational deficiencies or other disabilities. This calls for renewed education and training, provisions for which are made in the GI bill of rights.

But since the veterans want jobs now, the department is expanding its efforts to provide them with the jobs they can do. Hodgson will spend or get authority to spend whatever is necessary to get jobs for veterans. Actually, getting jobs for veterans is a cost saver, for every veteran who gets a job gets off the unemployment compensation roll.

The National Alliance of Businessmen has been able to find employment for several hundred thousand disadvantaged people. Hodgson has turned to them for jobs for veterans. The government does not have the jobs. The private sector must furnish them. It is now necessary to enlarge on the claims of these veterans to all the jobs they can get.

Sam DuPont, scion of the founder of the nation's greatest industrial empire, works for $6,500 a year as sheriff of Cecil County, Maryland. While other wealthy men choose Congress or statehouses and aim for the White House, DuPont is happy at law enforcement. More young men should seek the challenge.

David Lawrence Says
Washington Disturbed Over 'Pentagon Study' Episode

WASHINGTON — Slowly the facts are coming to the surface about the notorious "Pentagon Study" — parts of which, although containing "classified" documents, have been published in the press. It turns out that the 36-man group of researchers had no access to White House files and was not permitted to interview "any of the principal participants."

Leslie H. Gelb, chairman of the Pentagon Task Force which prepared the study, said in a memo describing the report that it was rather "a history based solely on documents." Without the opinions of the participants, he declared, this approach was certain to lead to "mistakes" and "distortions." He added:

"Of course, we all had our prejudices and axes to grind and these shine through clearly at times, but we tried, we think, to suppress or compensate for them....

"Writing history, especially where it blends into current events, especially where that current event is Vietnam, is a treacherous exercise. We could not go into the minds of the decision makers; we were not present at the decisions, and we often could not tell whether something happened because someone decided it, decided against it or, most likely, because it unfolded from the situation."

This statement indicates that the "Pentagon Study" should not have been given the significance which has been attributed to it in the press. Mr. Gelb's memo — now included in court proceedings to determine whether the remainder of the articles can be published — was dated Jan. 15, 1969, just a few days before the Johnson administration left office.

The open admission that the "principal participants" in the administration were not interviewed is of great importance. The American people will not be able to form an impartial judgment of just what did happen in the making of Vietnam policy during this period until those involved — including President Johnson, his Secretary of State Dean Rusk and his Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and successor Clark Clifford — are interrogated or their written memoranda to the President are permitted to be studied by another investigating commission. The objective would be to get all the facts and then form an impartial judgment.

The administration's argument in the courts revolves around the point that national security is imperiled by publication of documents in the "Pentagon Study." The government declares that some of the material concerns "current operations planned" in Vietnam. Also, the report contains the texts of messages which were sent to and received from foreign governments of American diplomats abroad. The fear is that the printing of these will enable the Soviets, for example, to break the code, with the result that many messages which have been intercepted by Moscow in recent months can be deciphered. This is why it is being contended here that further publication of the report would involve matters that could do damage to the national defense.

It is interesting to note that General Maxwell Taylor, who was formerly chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and later American ambassador to South Vietnam, has questioned some of the conclusions drawn from the "Pentagon Study." He denies that there was any deliberate deception by the Johnson administration.

"Time" magazine reports this week that, according to information it has received, former Secretary of Defense McNamara "feels the sensational way in which the documents were released is tragic. The magazine adds that "he is known to believe that if the more delicate messages between allies come out, there will be enormous embarrassment and distrust of the United States in a number of countries that jeopardized their diplomatic credibility to aid the United States."

Every day there are indications that the entire controversy is creating an unfavorable impression of the United States in foreign countries. It is not clear abroad what is meant by the allegations that President Johnson engaged in "deception." General Taylor, in his interview in "Time," points out that President Johnson was still rejecting the bombing recommendations even after the 1964 election, so "it seems highly unfair to accuse him of having made up his mind before the elections but putting it off for political reasons."

Whatever the courts may decide, the whole episode is one that official Washington is not happy about.

Jack Anderson Says
Richard Nixon Is Being Made Over for 1972 Election

WASHINGTON — Joe McGinnis's book, "The Selling of the President," revealed in excruciating detail how Richard Nixon was marketed to the American public in 1968 like a bottle of bubble bath beads.

He was taken in hand by advertising and television specialists who prepared him for public display. They preened, powdered and pomaded him. They taught him how to project a warm, fatherly, presidential image on the tube.

What Nixon stood for was of secondary importance. The overriding goal was to sell not the issues but the image to the people.

Now he is being fitted with a new image for 1972. The conservative Nixon of 1968 is rapidly being liberalized before our eyes.

The process began last fall with his personal appearance. He fired his barber and hired Milton Pitts, a tonsorial artist, who is billed as "Washington's leading men's hair stylist."

Pitts promptly washed the oil and goo out of Nixon's hair, combed out the curly ends, lowered his sideburns, and gave him a razor-cut. Result: a more modern "natural" look. According to one insider, the President even colors his hair to hide the gray.

Nixon's tailor, H. Freeman & Son of Philadelphia, is also sending the President modestly designed double-breasted suits with wider lapels. Nixon has also started wearing more modern, three-inch wide ties.

He watches his weight (170 pounds), gets plenty of sleep (seven hours minimum), and shaves as often as three times a day.

Locker Room Jokes

Attorney General John Mitchell, who is expected to resume his role as campaign manager in 1972, also appreciates the value of a good image. At a recent Washington party, he was heard to declare that the "Nixon men are not all squares." To prove his point, he rose to toast the hostess and told two locker room jokes of W. C. Fields vintage.

"We have got to change the Nixon image," he later explained. "People do not see the President for what he really is or see what he is really doing."

An ally in his cause, Mitchell said, was Treasury Secretary John Connally, who had already met with some Republican Senators to admonish them for "not selling the President to the country."

If GOP Senators aren't selling the President as they should, the White House crew is more efficient. The Presidential image makers weigh Nixon's every word and monitor his every step. They plan campaigns to promote his programs, bring in congressmen for breakfast meetings, coordinate with business leaders and special interest groups, arrange endless briefings.

They paint the President as a wise ruler forever being fondled by the rosy fingertrips of fortune. They rush to poke their thumbs in every hole in the dam. The Laos operation, they would have us know, was a smashing success; the campuses, their intelligence sources say, are now seas of tranquility.

Nixon and Networks

For all of the Administration's bellyaching about the networks, Nixon has commandeered more prime time on the nation's TV screens than did all his predecessors combined.

Image experts note that Nixon is careful to choose formats that tend to project him as a "warm" figure. They also point out that when he is interviewed on television, he invariably chooses to be questioned by the network "anchor men" rather than by reporters who cover him daily and are more familiar with the White House operation.

For the public's benefit, President Nixon pretends to be unconcerned about his image and deprecates the "experts" who attempt to plaster his beard with makeup or adjust the television lights to hide the bags under his eyes.

"I don't worry about images . . ." he said on television. "The public relations experts always come in and are constantly riding me...'You have got to do this, that and the other thing to change your image.' I am not going to change my image."

This seeming indifference over his image is really part of the studied effort to make his image appear genuine. Actually, the White House is crawling with professional image makers who hide behind a variety of titles but who contribute to presenting the President to the public in the best possible light.

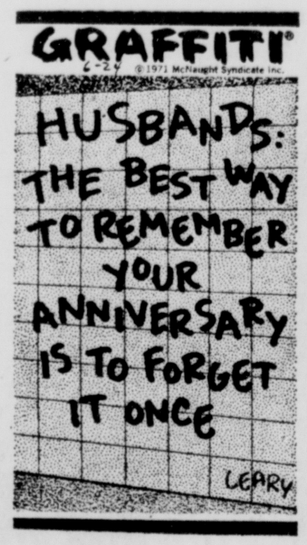

No one will say how many image specialists are on the White House payroll. But confidential sources put the number at about 55, counting secretaries.

Of course, all Presidents have attempted to sell themselves and their programs. But never in the history of the Republic has a president attacked the task with more cold calculation and more expert help than has Richard Nixon.

Washington Whirl

Bargain Cadillacs — We were the first to report that congressional chairmen were able to lease gleaming new Cadillacs, Lincolns and Chrysler Imperials for token fees. It is only fair to report, therefore, that we have now caught the Pentagon wangling the same bargain. Ten new Cadillac Fleetwoods have been delivered to the Pentagon for the riding comfort of high officials. The Pentagon pays less than $100 a month for each car. Anyone else would have to pay at least four times that amount. General Motors happens to be one of the nation's biggest defense contractors. The officials who ride around in GM's $100-a-month Cadillacs, of course, determine who gets defense contracts.

Tax Cuts — President Nixon is eager to get the economy booming again before the 1972 election. He is tempted to stimulate the economy by speeding up the income-tax cuts that are scheduled to take effect in 1972 and 1973. The President's economic advisers, however, have warned that too much stimulus could cause soaring inflation. Best guess is that the President will accept the political risk of a tagging economy and will hold to a slower pace of recovery.

Henry J. Taylor Says
Greece's Economic Advance

DELPHI, Greece. — I have spent long periods in this lovely land, returned many times, and have always liked and admired the people, their colorfulness, their history, their bravery. This ageless place — Delphi — is in Greece's hinterland and in the hinterland the people are poor. But it is here, close to the soil, that you find the true Greek.

Most Greek peasants still measure time by such ancient ruins as are here and in donkey-hours of travel. The adjective Spartan is suitable. Nearly all have known in their lives that inner feeling when a man defies his own limits. But among Greece's peasants the word for a friendly American translates as "guest," and you encounter at once the peasants' simple delight in doing anyone a service.

What they want is close around them. Their families, their land, their livestock — and the security of these — mean everything. They couldn't care less about the Athens government's ideology or anything having to do with safe. They want no trouble out of Athens, and surely no bloodshed, and they abhor those Greek emigres who sound like trouble, blast the government and shout at them from afar, "Let's you and him fight."

Criticism abroad of today's "government of the colonels" ignores the priority of this national feeling for order is now the order of the day in this strife-weary country. This has great popular appeal — as it might in our own country — and makes up for a great deal more than we may think.

Moreover, emigres, such as movie star Melina Mercouri, who shout from abroad that it is unsafe to visit Greece are bitterly resented as hurting their homeland. They're quite openly called liars, besides. Foreign spenders visiting Greece are like Zeus descending on Danae in a shower of gold. They are this country's largest single source of income.

Through June of this year tourists will exceed 560,000 — up 24 per cent from 1969. Their 1971 spending will nudge $160 million. Mercouri-like damage to this tourism bonanza ruffles Greek feathers like a fox in a henhouse.

In simple truth, there is not a section of this country that could conceivably be safer for the ordinary visitor. You find that this safety extends from the most-crowded districts in the cities — like Athens' old Plaka section pressing on the Acropolis or the Salonika waterfront — to even the remote, ancient troglodyte houses built in the hinterland's cliffsides during the Turkish occupation and many of which are still occupied.

As one result, able, experienced and highly impressive Minister of Coordination Nicholaos Makarezos tells me he finds it significant that for the first time in postwar Greek history more than a million Greeks now have savings accounts — a 400,000 increase in the past four years — and that these represent more than half the nation's entire bank deposits. Minister Makarezos regards this as individual votes of confidence by the people in the country's stability.

A Balkans-poor country — and a scattered country about the size of Alabama but with 166 inhabited islands — Greece is lifting itself now by its bootstraps. Only one-fourth of the total area is arable. Only bauxite is present in abundance and new, costly hydroelectric developments have had to take the place of coal.

Under Secretary George Georgalas tells me that, in spite of all this, in 1967 Greece's gross national product increased 4.8 per cent, in 1968 it increased 5.5 per cent, and in 1969 another 8.5 per cent. In 1970 the increase exceeded 10 per cent and this year's increase is expected to exceed even that. Workers' incomes have risen 10 per cent per annum. Meanwhile, the average industrial share on the Athens Stock Exchange has climbed 140 per cent since 1968.

Actually, the economic advance here now exceeds that of any country reporting its status, even Japan, and, astoundingly enough in the past four years Greece has shown the least rise in prices of any country in the entire world reporting same.

One key to its success is Minister Makarezos' assurance to foreign investors that their investment will not be confiscated. This contrasts with the nearby southern rim of the Mediterranean where confiscation is rampant in Syria, Egypt, Libya, etc. The current American losses alone through confiscation or shotgun marriages with governments are running into the billions of dollars, and with no end in sight.

"Greece in view! O, joy!" sang Byron — and so sing the tourists and the investors alike.

Cities Becoming Impotent As Their Services Crumble

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — When workers in public service unions put the strangle on chaotic New York City, the justifiable cries of outrage came from every quarter. But this predictable noise drowned out voices making another crucial point about this kind of disruption.

A highly respected expert in federal-state-city matters tells me that in recent years there has been a "shocking decline in the productivity of public service employes in the big cities."

He adds that in about half of the 50 states, the unionization of public service workers in cities has reached the point where "they have a lot of clout."

Since city services are generally monopoly enterprises, the union workers' leverage in enforcing their wage and other demands is obviously enhanced. And there is no competitive factor, such as the presence of a related industry, either to compel restraint or to inspire productive performance.

"Because of this," says the cited expert, "you have some rather frightening situations."

New York, the flabby giant lying helpless in the rising weeds, is inevitably the easiest prey. Great chunks of its flesh are mortgaged to the strong. But other cities of size suffer the same dilemma.

The aggressiveness would not be made so much of by the urban specialists if city work generally was being performed better and better. Of course, it is not. As perceived by the citizens they are supposed to serve, the cities are doing their thing worse and worse and worse.

Traffic management in most places is pathetic. Garbage collection? If you bronzed your battered trash can and set it against a montage of uncollected beer cans, drifting tissues and orange peels, you'd have it. Street maintenance? Health and welfare? Schools? Don't ask.

The magnitude of the decay can't be overstated. It has a very great deal to do with the rock-firm conviction of men like powerful Wilbur Mills, House Ways and Means chairman, that you can't give cities big new money without some strings to it.

Any day you ask, Mills will tell you the cities must have money. Either this year or early next, he's going to shape a new proposal to spread some fresh bread around.

But he and others cast a fishy eye on the way the cities spend their money today. They've watched the entrenched claimants reach past the cities and try to dig their hooks into state legislatures. Plainly, Mills and company don't intend to let them get their clamps on the coming new batches of federal money.

Again, the attitudes might be softer if the strong money claimants performed more productively. But the citizen eyeballing his town knows they don't. And the experts, scanning the whole range of government, back up the judgment.

The decline of the cities as working mechanisms is a sad trend. The fall-off in productive effort is particularly dismaying to experts who see some healthy counter-trends. In some aspects of city management, much more professionalism is found today than even a decade ago. Trained analysts and administrators are swarming in and bearing down on problems.

"In this kind of work, the competence level is much improved," says my respected appraiser.

The bad news is that the goal of competence has no contagion for public service workers at broader city levels. The great lack will be hobbling New York and other cities long after the irritations of the latest unforgivable disruption have worn off.

Israel Considering Direct Soviet Talks

LONDON (UPI)—Israel is considering opening direct talks with the Soviet Union because it is upset by differences with the United States, diplomatic sources said today.

There already have been recent nondiplomatic contacts between Israelis and Russians, the sources said.

Premier Golda Meir's government in Jerusalem includes those advocating that talks with the Kremlin, the main supporter of Israel's hostile Arab neighbors, be made official policy and carried out on a diplomatic level.

Several days ago Israeli Foreign Minster Abba Eban told a group of Americans in Jerusalem that his country is willing to renew relations with the Soviet Union "in any form the Russians suggest."

The diplomatic sources said the Israelis believe such talks with the Rusians would have little if any chance of success. They said virtually no one in Mrs. Meir's government believes talks could aid their cause in such matters as getting the Soviet Union to soften its position in the Middle East or to allow greater numbers of the three million Jews in the Soviet Union to emigrate to Israel.

But, the sources said, the advocates of the talks in Israel believe the talking alone would be:

—Useful in better grasping Soviet policy, aims and possibilities of attempting "meaningful" negotiations.

—Possibly have a "good" effect on President Nixon—raise doubts in official American minds that Israel can be taken for granted.

—Possibly have a similar effect on President Anwar Sadat of Egypt, meaning—how would the Egyptians, so dependent on Soviet aid, enjoy the prospect of their great friend talking directly with the Israelis.

In Mrs. Meir's government, advocates of talking with the Russians said Israel certainly may have little chance of gaining something but it certainly would have nothing to lose by trying.

McNamara Opposed JCS on Bombing

MIAMI (UPI)—Former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara battled "ardent opposition" from the Joint Chiefs of Staff in proposing a halt to the bombing of North Vietnam, according to portions of a Pentagon study published in the Knight newspaper group.

The Miami Herald, one of 11 papers owned by Knight Newspapers Inc., devoted four pages to excerpts from the controversial study commissioned by McNamara in 1967. Other excerpts have appeared in the New York Times, Washington Post and Boston Globe.

The study shows that McNamara recommended in the fall of 1966 that project "Rolling Thunder" — the bombing of North Vietnam—be halted and found himself at odds with the joint chiefs who were "in ardent opposition to anything other than a significant escalation of the war."

"The JCS literally bombarded the secretary with memoranda, urging more rather than less bombing," the study said.

The JCS chairman, Gen. Earle Wheeler, called McNamara's suggestion "an aerial Dien Bien Phu" and said it would give North Vietnam time to recoup its losses. Wheeler referred to the French defeat at Dien Bien Phu which forced France to withdraw from Vietnam.

The study also said that McNamara sent a letter to President Lyndon B. Johnson in May, 1967, proposing South Vietnamese elections and a possible coalition government in Saigon.

The study said it had become apparent that a "clear-cut military victory was doubtful," especially in light of the Tet offensive, and President Johnson's decision not to seek re-election "turned American policy toward a peaceful settlement of the war."

The published stories said, "as another analyst wrote in another section of the Pentagon study, 'a major corner in the war and in American policy had been turned and ... there was no going back'."

Lee Hills, president of Knight Newspapers, issued a statement Wednesday night in which he said publication of the Pentagon study was in the best tradition of 200 years of constitutional freedom.

"While we have no plans at the moment to publish further material from the Pentagon papers, we will join other newspapers in the fight to preserve for the American people the right to publish without prior restraint from government," Hills said.

The stories relating to the Pentagon study came out of Washington, but how Knight editors and reporters obtained them was not revealed. The articles refer only to information "made available to Knight newspapers."

Dedication for President's Mother

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon headed for Indiana today for the dedication of a plaque to be placed near the birthplace of his Quaker mother, Hannah Milhous Nixon.

Scheduled were ceremonies and a speech at the Jennings County courthouse in North Vernon, Ind.

The little Hoosier town was the first stop on a two-day trip to the Midwest that included scheduled speech-making appearances tonight at a retirement dinner in Indianapolis for Purdue University President Frederick Hovde.

Nixon is to attend a conference of retired persons in Chicago Friday morning after an overnight stop at the Continental Plaza Hotel in Chicago.

The Chief Executive accepted the invitation to North Vernon from the 25-member Jennings County High School chapter of the Indiana Junior Historical Society, which is honoring his mother.

The plaque, to be placed on U.S. highway 50 near Butlerville, Ind., bears this historical inscription:

"Hannah Milhous Nixon, mother of President Richard M. Nixon, was born on a farm 4½ miles southeast, to which her grandparents came in 1854. Moved to California in 1897 when she was 12 years old."

The farmhouse where Hannah Milhous was born burned to the ground in a 1968 fire. She died in 1967 at 84.

The President's mother was born March 7, 1885, in San Jacinto, Jennings County, near Butlerville. Her father, Franklin Milhous, was an orchardist. Her mother, Almira Burdge, a schoolteacher, was his second wife.

Indiana was the third stop in America for the Milhous clan. Originally from Germany, they moved first to Ireland, then to the United States, where they settled in Pennsylvania in the late 1720s. They then went to Ohio.

When they left Butlerville, the Milhous family moved to a 10-year-old California community named after the Quaker poet John Greenleaf Whittier.

Nixon Doubts War As Issue in 1972

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon is convinced the Vietnam war will be neutralized as a campaign issue by next year and that the 1972 election will turn on domestic matters such as the economy and the welfare system, a top campaign strategist said today.

Robert H. Finch, counselor to the President and a member of Nixon's political team for 25 years, discussed campaign strategy in an interview with UPI as the President stepped up his schedule of pre-election travel.

Nixon, who has not yet announced that he will seek a second term, already has made a foray to the South and the one into the Midwest today—two regions crucial to his re-election chances. They were sandwiched around a speech to the American Medical Association in which he aimed sharp barbs at Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, a possible Democratic Presidential nominee.

Finch conditioned his comments by saying "assuming that he (Nixon) is a candidate." But the former health, education and welfare secretary added quickly: "I think that is a pretty valid operating assumption."

Finch said Nixon's campaign strong points will be his revenue sharing, health care, welfare reform and governmental reorganization plans.

"I really don't think the war will be a major issue," Finch said. "I honestly believe that the President will have met—as he has met—each deadline and each quota for troop withdrawal. It will have been defused as an issue."

The issues that will determine the 1972 election will be chiefly domestic, Finch said.

"I think the economy will be moving up at that point," Finch said. "Hopefully we will have had welfare reform. We have seen recently that the rolls jumped 50 per cent in the last couple of years on AFDC (Aid to Families with Dependent Children). That just has to be changed."

Authorities In Court Against National Guard

NEW YORK (UPI)— Federal authorities went to court Wednesday to try to force the New York National Guard to remove landfill from a swamp near Peekskill, which was being converted into a parking lot.

U. S. District Judge Edward C. McLean granted the show cause order requested by the government. There will be a hearing Tuesday on the issue.

Students and residents of Peekskill had complained that the Guard was destroying plant and animal life by dumping rubble, scrap wood, masonry and earth into the four - acre tidal marsh along the Hudson River next to Camp Smith.

The Guard has already suspended filling operations at the swamp, but said it would take two years to remove the fill already dumped on the site. The government contends that it must be removed by next spring if the denizens of the marsh are to benefit.

The suit filed by the government named Maj. Gen. John C. Baker, chief of the state's Military and Naval Affairs Division, and Col. Arthur Sulger, commanding officer of Camp Smith, as the officers primarily responsible for the parking-lot project.

Cosmonauts Continue Orbiting Earth

MOSCOW (UPI)—Three Soviet cosmonauts, new holders of the world's longest spaceflight record, continued orbiting Earth today with no indication when their mission would end.

Georgy Dobrovolsky, Vladislav Volkov and Viktor Patsayev equaled the old record held by two Soyuz 9 cosmonauts in 1970 of 17 days, 16 hours and 59 minutes early today. Their 25-ton Salyut space station sailed smoothly on.

A primary objective of the Salyut flight was to determine how to overcome the dizziness, weight loss and weakened bones that result from prolonged weightless living. When the three Salyut crewmen return to Earth their physical conditions will be compared with that of Andrian Nikolayev and Vitaly Sevastianov, who made the 1970 Soyuz 9 flight.

Nikolayev and Sevastianov were unable to walk when they first touched Earth, and it was more than a month before they had completely readapted their weakened bodies to Earth's gravity.

The Salyut cosmonauts, profiting from the problems of the Soyuz 9 crew, following a strict regimen intended to minimize the ill effects of prolonged spaceflight. They exercised like Polar explorers, one fellow cosmonaut said.

Dobrovolsky, 43, Volkov, 45, and Patsayev, 38, began their mission June 6 when their Soyuz 11 ship blasted off to join the Salyut station, which had been in orbit since April 19.

Postal Employes Local Files 6 Unfair Charges

KINGSTON

The new U.S. Postal Service, which formally takes over the mails on July 1, has been charged with six counts of unfair labor practices, a spokesman for the area's organized postal employes revealed today.

Maurice Linder, president, of Local 4770, United Federation of Postal Clerks, AFL-CIO said the filing of charges arises from the current six-months negotiating stalemate in Washington between postal management and the seven postal unions which hold exclusive bargaining rights.

Linder said that management negotiators "have refused to make a single offer to improve wages or fringe benefits since bargaining began last Jan. 20."

He said such steadfast refusal was a violation of the provisions of the Presidential Executive Order which set up the mechanism for collective bargaining in the postal service.

"The Post Office Department," he added, "is also accused of bad faith, a closed mind and a determination not to reach agreement except on terms incompatible with the postal reform law and the legal rights of the unions involved."

"Under the provisions of the Presidential Executive Order," Linder continued, "the formal charges had to be filed with the Department itself — a ridiculous procedure on its face. But after July 1, when the Postal Sevice comes under the National Labor Relations Act, the charges will be re-filed with the National Labor Relations Board if the negotiations remain stalled at dead center."

Linder said the unions acted after a three-man Federal Fact-finding panel, which devoted a month's study to the impasse, issued a 20-page report stressing the complexities of the situation but making no substantive recommendations.

To Kingston Savings Bank, "mortgage" is not a dirty word.

Half of our motto is, "Provide for the future."

There's meaning behind those words. And money, too. Money we've allocated specifically for mortgage loans. Not for some far away place where we can get higher rates.

For right here in our county. Now. For you.

If you want to build or buy a home this year, talk to a Kingston Savings Bank mortgage officer. After a brief, confidential talk, if we can say yes, that's what we'll say.

Oh, about the other half of our motto: "Preserve the past." We can apply that to Home Improvement Loans.

In other words, we expect our "loan approved" stamp to wear out rather fast this year.

Sr. Citizens Are Organizing

TOWN OF KINGSTON

Between 35 and 40 senior citizens met in the Town of Kingston Wednesday night for the purpose of organizing a senior citizen's club which will be primarily social in character.

Kenneth Whispell, who originally sought to organize the group, said he was pleased with the unusually large turnout for a town the size of Kingston.

A steering committee was appointed with Hazel Burton as chairman and including George Hielf, Harry Siemsen, Betty James and Emma Herman. The committee will present a slate of officers to be elected at the next meeting.

Alexander Yosman, director of the Kingston Housing Authority, explained the purpose of the club and what members might expect to accomplish.

Douglas V. Dye, chairman of the County Legislature's Senior Citizen's Committee, explained what the county is doing for the senior members of society. He said that the county has allocated $4,500 for use by the senior citizens but the committee had not yet decided how the funds would be used.

Broken Window Led to Rape, Claims Court

NEW YORK (UPI)—A civil court has ordered a Manhattan realty firm to pay a woman tenant $10,000 damages for failure to repair a window that a rapist climbed through. The court decided the broken window was a "cause" of the woman's rape.

The court papers released Wednesday identified the woman only as "Janet Smith" and the firm as "ABC Realty Co." The glass of a window in "Miss Smith's" fifth story walkup apartment had been cut in early June, 1969, and still had not been replaced when she was raped at knifepoint on June 20, 1969.

Her attacker crawled through the window after climbing a fire escape.

Judge Martin B. Stecher found that "Miss Smith" had made "numerous... demands on the superintendent to repair the window."

Cyclist Hurt On Route 28

TOWN OF ULSTER

A 20-year-old Town of Esopus youth was seriously injured before 9 p. m. Wednesday when the motorcycle he was operating was involved in a collision with a car on Route 28 near the Royal Diner in this town ship.

Frederick Clark of River Road, Port Ewen, was taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctor's Ambulance Service. State Police at Kingston said the youth suffered a broken right leg, lacerations and contusions.

A report of Trooper N. L. Kilfoyle noted that the motorcycle was in collision with a car driven by Helen Curtis of Phoenicia.

Man Arrested On Drug Charge

TOWN OF SAUGERTIES

State Police arrested Francis Fletcher, 46, of Lake Hill, Wednesday night and charged him with criminal possession of dangerous drugs sixth degree during a routine traffic check.

Fletcher, troopers said, had in his possession two marijuana cigarettes and a bag containing a quantity of the same drug. He was arraigned before Town Police Justice Robert Schirmer, who released the defendant in $100 bail and adjourned hearing until June 30.

Troopers A. J. Scarselli and J. P. McMickle made the arrest.

Institute Set For City Play Supervisors

KINGSTON — Andrew J. Murphy III, Superintendent of Parks and Recreation, and Ronald F. Gabriele, activities director, announced today that the Kingston Recreation Commission will hold its annual Recreation Training Institute for play supervisors next week.

The institute will take place Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The playgrounds are scheduled to open officially at 1:30 p.m. on Wednesday.

The training institute is an annual event and takes place in most of the larger cities throughout the state during the early weeks of the summer season, said Murphy. The purpose of the institute is to acquaint college-age youngsters with the principals of good playground and recreational leadership for the coming summer season. Upon completion of the three-day institute, each potential playground leader is awarded a New York State Recreation Training Institute Certificate.

Areas covered at the institute include: procedures, group music, safety and first aid, quiet games, active games, reading and story telling, nature and animal study, child psychology, accident procedures and nocturnal activities. Experts in each field are brought in to discuss, demonstrate and lecture on the various topics.

Nursing Home Week Observed

NEWBURGH — Members of the Mid-Hudson Nursing Home Association are observing National Nursing Home Week, it was announced today by the association president, Edward T. Sylcox Sr., here.

Sylcox, in launching the observance, invited all families, friends and interested citizens to visit the nursing home nearest their community.

"The nursing home profession," he said, "has made great strides since its early beginning in the U.S. There was a time when a concerned person would take in a few helpless individuals who could neither be helped further in a hospital, nor cared for alone at home. The nursing home of today is a solid part of the health care team in this country. It specifically cares for the patient who suffers from a chronic disease which cannot be cared for by short-term drugs or surgery, but requires changing medical care for extended periods of time."

Sylcox emphasized that the medical team, along with the supportive services of these nursing homes, are prepared to meet the needs of the patient with the specific aid to get them back into community life.

Members of the Mid-Hudson Nursing Home Association include the Sylcox Nursing Home in Newburgh; New Paltz Nursing Home; the Tra-Nel Nursing Home, Beacon; East Point Nursing Home, Cold Spring; Lovely Hill Nursing Home, Pawling; Hutton Nursing Home, Kingston; Earle Nursing Home, Middletown; Doane's Nursing Home, Goshen; and Jones and Martin Nursing Home, Middletown.

Jews on Hunger Strike, Seek Permission to Emigrate

MOSCOW (UPI)—More than 80 Jews in two cities carried out a public hunger strike today to protest official refusal to let them go to Israel.

Nine others on trial in Kishinev, Moldavia, faced the possibility of seven years in prison for similar protest activities.

A total of 33 Baltic Jews sat fasting in Moscow's central post office overnight to dramatize their demands for permission to emigrate. Participants in the hunger strike said 50 more persons in the Latvian capital of Riga were staging a similar hunger strike.

In neither case did protesters report direct interference from police, although both uniformed and plainclothes officers watched the Moscow demonstration.

In Kishinev, nine Jews were on trial for disseminating anti-Soviet material, most of it connected with their demands for permission to go to Israel. Four were implicated in a Leningrad hijack attempt in which a group of Jews sought to commandeer a plane and use it to help them reach Israel.

Blind Widow Loses $6,000

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — A 67-year-old, partially blind widow of a State Police captain lost $6,000 Wednesday to two women "flim-flam" operators.

Mrs. Naomi King said she was standing on an Albany street corner Wednesday afternoon when the two approached her and told her they had just found $100,000 and that she ought to share in the money because she was nearby when they found it.

Then they asked her to put up $6,000 as a token of good faith.

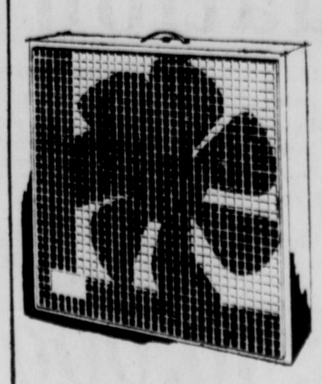

Mrs. King withdrew the money from her savings account, though bank officials said they warned her of a possible hoax.

The widow said she turned the money over to the two and they gave her the address of a lawyer to see about signing some papers. Then, she said, she found there was no such lawyer.

Mrs. King, who was the wife of the late Trooper Captain John King, said she "couldn't see their faces at all." But, bank officers were able to describe one of the women who appeared with Mrs. King at the bank.

Graduation Rites at Wallkill

WALLKILL

Graduation exercises were held last week at the Wallkill Correctional Facility in southern Ulster County, with 106 inmates receiving certificates and diplomas.

Superintendent Harold N. Butler presented 33 High School Diplomas and 73 Vocational Certificates in the fields of auto mechanics, baking, barbering, blacksmithing, carpentry, cooking, electricity, masonry, optics, machine shop, sheetmetal, tailoring, radio and TV maintenance and welding.

Larry Schwartz, a business consultant and teacher at the State University College at New Paltz delivered the main address. He complimented the men on their efforts and achievements, emphasizing that education vocational skills would go a long way towards overcoming the "handicap of imprisonment."

Schwartz has been affiliated with the Daytop Drug Program at the Wallkill Correctional Facility and has been teaching 40 Wallkill inmates the same class in speedreading that is offered at New Paltz.

Classes for the inmates were conducted at the New York State Birch Road School on prison grounds. The school received accreditation from the University of the State of New York in 1967 and has conducted graduation ceremonies since then.

CONFUSION — "Which way is the house?" a motorist would ask himself as he tries to figure out which way his home is as the street signs would confuse anyone in his right mind. The Portland, Oregon, city street department goofed when they placed these signs in southeast section of the city and an enterprising photographer thought it would make a good picture. School Site Improvement Bids Rejected

SAUGERTIES — Bids for site improvement at the Morse School, Blue Mountain were rejected for a second time at this week's meeting of Saugerties Central School Board of Education.

The low bid of $21,800 was considered too high by board members.

Bids were accepted for painting at the Morse, Mt. Marion, and the High School; the repair of roofing at the Senior High School; athletics supplies and equipment; musical instruments; first aid supplies; general office supplies; duplicating supplies; and a cooperative bid through Ulster County BOCES for bread, were approved.

A major bid accepted was from the School Transit Company for transportation of pupils for next year, in the amount of $317,290.

An ESEA Title I project for next year, previously approved by an advisory committee, was adopted and can now be submitted to the State Education Department and, if approved, will be financed with Federal funds. The program is for disadvantaged children.

The following personnel were also approved:

Resignations were accepted from the following instructional personnel: Gerald Hawkins, Ruth Kroll, and Philip Kroll. Resignations were also accepted from the following non-instructional personnel: Roy Gillespy and Mrs. Jean Shellhammer.

Transfers were approved for Mrs. Kathryn Rourke from Glasco Grade 6 to Glasco Grade 4, and for Edward Trnka from Junior High science to Junior Senior Health Education teacher. These transfers are effective for the 71-72 school year. Richard Myers was transferred from groundsman to custodial worker, effective June 22.

The following appointments were approved for the 71-72 school year: Mrs. Shirley Quick, elementary teacher; Miss Greer Minnich, elementary teacher; Miss Maribeth LeRoy, elementary; Richard Meyer, elementary; Mrs. Sandra Popowicz, elementary; David Rubenstein, Junior High English; Miss Margaret Zoldie, Junior High English-Social Studies; Miss Joan Salvati, Senior High English; Michael FitzGibbons, physical education, Senior High; Mrs. Suzanne LeBlanc, home economics, Senior High; Miss Jeanne Morrison, Junior High mathematics; James Davis, elementary physical education; and Miss Linda Schmitz, health education teacher. Non-instructional appointments include Salvatore Davi, custodial worker, and Joseph Horan, groundsman.

Brogan Installed Jaycees President

William Brogan was installed president of Saugerties Jaycees at the annual awards banquet held recently at Sky Top Restaurant.

Others installed included Ned Steere, internal vice president; Robert Brandt, external vice president; William Warner, treasurer; Rondla Willing, secretary; Milan Paddock, Jerry O'Leary, Richard Lukes and Ed Pfeiffer, directors.

The Jayncees installed Jeannette Orlando, president; Rose Mary Gabriel, vice president; Cheryl Lounsdury, treasurer.

Outgoing President John Lawrance gave awards to Willing, SPOKE of the Year; Tony Mennella, Sparkplug of the Year; Roger Murray, outstanding board member; George Pardonner, a past president, Jaycee of the Year for his efforts as recreation chairman, and his involvement in many of the other Jaycee projects.

Mrs. Dorothy Corea was presented a Presidential Citation for her many years of service to the Jaycees. President Lawrence also stated that Mrs. Corea's involvement and dedication to the Jayncees should be an example for all Jayncees and Jaycees.

Outgoing Jayncee President Mary Mower made the following awards: Mary Pardonner, outstanding board member; Corrine Cochran, Spekette of the Year; Jean Lawrence, Sparkette of the Year; Nancy Saturn, Jayncee of the Year.

Honored guests included Supervisor and Mrs. Michael A. Schovel, Councilman and Mrs. Francis Myer, National Vice-President and Mrs. Frank Antalek.

Chairman Jerry Kurtz and his committee including Mrs. Cochran, Roy Cochran, and Willie Edmunds, emcee, organized one of the best installation banquets in recent years, Lawrence said.

There were 38 couples in attendance, and music was provided by the Pete Ferraro quartet.

The Jaycees meet the 3rd Monday of every month at the Flamingo Restaurant, at 7:30.

Legion Auxiliary Activities

SAUGERTIES — It was a very short business meeting of Lamouree-Hackett American Legion Auxiliary, Unit 72, preceding the recent annual installation of new officers, but important committee reports were given by the chairmen of the various programs.

Although the unit does not meet during the summer months, collections continue of material for cancer pads, food stamps, canceled stamps, games and books for veterans at the Albany Veterans Hospital, clothing for unfortunate children in the area, and other community services.

Reports of the standing committees were reported as follows: Mrs. Ann Johnson, outgoing chaplain, reported that 11 Easter plants had been sent to surviving Gold Star mothers or to the church of those who are now deceased.

Mrs. Evelyn Carnright, cancer chairman, reported 10 pounds of white material and two pounds of nylon stockings had been collected for cancer pads, and under the rehabilitation program she reported that three afghans valued at $75, four pair of eyeglasses, valued at $40, 1,386 tea bags and 800 canceled stamps, had been donated for the VA Hospital.

Mrs. Catherine VanGaasbeek, membership chairman, reported a record membership of 103 for the year. Members donated 15 hours of their time for community services with the Girl Scouts. Clothing valued at approximately $5 was given for child welfare.

The unit also gave its annual scholarship awards to one student at St. Mary's of the Snow Parochial School and the Saugerties High School.

All members are requested to join in the Fourth of July festivities sponsored by Saugerties Jaycees and are asked to meet at the Legion Home on July 3 at 9 a.m. to prepare for participation in the parade which will begin at 9:30 on Washington Avenue near Cantine Field.

Town Rec Program Starts on Monday

SAUGERTIES — The Town of Saugerties Summer Recreation Program will start Monday, it was announced by Bernard Rinaldi, commissioner of recreation.

The program will operate five days a week until August 20 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Three town-owned recreation fields plus school buildings at Mt. Marion, Glasco and Junior High School are available for use.

The recreation program which is available to all children in the Town of Saugerties will be conducted by three professional physical education teachers. Commissioner Rinaldi noted that Saugerties is fortunate to utilize the services of Coaches John Smith, Peter Kramer and Ronald Kuntz.

Registration for the program will be held on Monday at Cantine Field, Glasco School and Jaycee Field. Mt. Marion School youngsters may register on Tuesday, June 29.

A detailed program for each week will be announced.

N.Y. Petroleum Council Holds Meeting at Nevele

ELLENVILLE — On the eve of the first anniversary of the Department of Environmental Conservation, Deputy Commissioner Leighton A. Hope told the annual meeting of the New York State Petroleum Council Wednesday night that he commended it for the cooperation and support shown his department throughout the year.

At the same time, Hope challenged the industry to accelerate its pollution abatement efforts.

Hope, speaking to some 60 Petroleum Council representatives at the Nevele Country Club said, "The industry's cooperation has helped Commissioner Diamond provide more efficient and faster pollution abatement procedures." He cited Diamond's "progressive leadership" and several new laws regarding the standardization of fuels, the prohibition of discharging oil and other pollutants into the state waters, and visible inspection of pollution control devices on motor vehicles.

"Some of these laws introduced at Commissioner Diamond's request, will tighten enforcement procedures," he said.

"The progress we made in the aforementioned areas went more smoothly as a result of the Petroleum Council's cooperation," Hope said in his address, "The First Year of the Department of Environmental Conservation."

He concluded, "Both Commissioner Diamond and I are looking forward to additional work with the Petroleum Council, particularly in the area of bulk storage facilities."

Following Hope's remarks, the chairman of the Petroleum Council, Kenneth R. Apel, district manager for American Oil Company, presented the Petroleum Council's Distinguished Service Award to Ralph C. Davis for 20 years of service. Davis is manager, distribution sales, Chevron Oil Company.

Officers of the Petroleum Council were then installed. They are: Chairman, Kenneth R. Apel, American Oil Company; vice chairman, James W. Wilkinson, N.Y. Regional manager, Chevron Oil Company; treasurer, John J. Kelty, manager, wholesale sales, Cities Service Oil Company; and Anthony F. Mauriello, executive director.

Recovery Aided by Mid-Hudson Heart Assn.

Cardiac Patient Remembers Many Ordeals

EDITORS NOTE: Elliott Banks survived 75 cardiac arrests about two years ago, now lives a relatively normal life now on his Germantown fruit farm. He has written an account of his experiences and spoke with The Freeman. The dedication to his work is titled "I Remember."

Trying to reach out with arms that could not move
Trying to grasp with hands that had lost their grip
Trying to see with eyes too blurred to focus
Trying to understand when my mind was a pool of confusion
Trying to breathe with lungs that had ceased to function
Trying to live with a heart that wanted to rest
I could do none of these things but, with God's help, they did them for me."

By TIM SHUSTER

GERMANTOWN

A man from this Mid-Hudson Valley community is a living testament to the medical advances made and practiced in cardiac cases by members of the Mid-Hudson Heart Association.

J. Elliot Banks suffered 75 cardiac arrests during a nine-week stay at Columbia Memorial Hospital, Hudson, in 1969 and he recently spoke with The Freeman about his amazing recovery and the ordeals he withstood.

Special

The physician in charge was Dr. Edward P. Ginouves, president of the Kingston-based Mid-Hudson Heart Association. Banks related that Dr. Ginouves regarded him as a shining example of what electrical medicine can accomplish.

Meeting Banks at his sprawling Germantown fruit farm one would receive the impression that he was in his late forties. He is lean, tanned, and quick to smile. He said he was 62.

Upon leaving the hospital in April, 1969 he began writing what he calls his "memoirs" of the long and difficult stay. Perhaps the most bizarre aspect of his tale is the recurrence of mental voyages which he says had all the aspects of reality and which occurred with each cardiac arrest.

These are recounted in some detail, and Banks relates many aspects of the "visions" with the physical punishment his body was undergoing and the loss or impairment of sensory equipment.

After suffering his heart attack Feb. 17 he spent seven days in the Intensive Care Unit, steadily improving, and was then sent out to the floor to recuperate.

But the following morning "suddenly a strange feeling came over me, as though I was enveloped by numbness." He called for help and was shipped back to the Intensive Care Unit where for weeks he varied between periods of lucidity and frequent arrests, losing track of time, space, not recognizing people and going through mind-bending and body-wracking torture.

On various "trips" he descended ladders into hell; rode a violently moving bed; floated across Southeast Asia and the Mediterranean; watched the ceiling of his church roll back and was "buried alive" in a cemetery on top of layers of people.

He spoke of a "beautiful bright spring morning" about 30 years ago which turned out to be the only remotely pleasant trip of the dozens he had. He was plowing up a field by hand with a team of Cyldesdale mares, but when the horses disappeared he was forced to move the massive plow by hand and was refused a drink of water.

And perhaps the most revealing of the physical brutality he endured through the interpretation of his "dreams" was an episode when he was inside of a giant cement mixer.

It appeared to be about 10 feet in diameter and had a few feet of dry sand in the bottom. His task was to carry the sand from one side of the cylinder to the other with a 20-quart pail while the mixer was revolving.

"All I did was fall down, get up, and fall down again," he related. "Each time I fell I would strike my chest or ribs against one of the paddles or against my pail."

"When I awoke I was in my bed, but I felt as though I had just been extricated from that huge machine. I really felt beaten up," he said.

In speaking about his conscious periods, Banks noted that the nurses were always there and appeared nonchalant, as they did not share his terrible visions. When he felt the spells coming on he would shout, "Push the panic button, here I go again," referring to the emergency alarm.

And he noted that he generally left the conscious world quickly. "On a few occasions I felt as though I had been hit between the eyes with a mallet," he said. "I went out in a show of stars or sparks."

And sometimes when otherwise in a relatively composed state of mind, Banks would feel as though his bed were perpendicular to the floor, or it were six or seven feet high.

At one time he had an operation and was threaded for a pacemaker, and shortly thereafter thought he was in a store window, confusion brought about by a change in his cubicle.

And "one morning I believe I suprprised everyone. I awoke all enthusiastic over the fact that my wife had given birth to sextuplet girls."

On Easter Monday the intravenous was terminated and the wires from the cardioscope disconnected. And three days later he moved for the last time out of I.C.U. Banks went home two weeks later.

He says, "I no longer think of my stay in the hospital as a serious illness, but rather as a great experience." And his attitude is that "the past is good only for the ways it has taught us to meet the future."

Banks mows the lawn, tends his garden, and packs apples now. And he says he hasn't had any medication for 18 months.

UCCC Gives 160 Certificates For History Workshop Completion

STONE RIDGE

Certificates have been awarded to 160 persons from throughout the Hudson Valley who have completed the Sixth Regional History Workshop on "The River," sponsored by Ulster County Community College and the Ulster County Historical Society.

Certificates were awarded recently in the Bevier House, headquarters of the Ulster County Historical Society, where President George B. Erbstein of the college, lauded John Remensnyder, president of the Ulster County Historical Society, for the Society's cooperation in offering the Workshop.

JOHN REMENSNYDER

"The Workshop continues to provide a worthwhile community service," said President Erbstein, "and I certainly want to commend the Historical Society for its willingness to cooperate and assume joint leadership in this project."

Dr. Erbstein said the College looks forward to many more years of cooperative efforts of this nature with the Historical Society.

Among those receiving the certificates were residents from throughout Ulster County, including Kingston, Saugerties, Ellenville, New Paltz and Highland, and also Catskill, Poughkeepsie, Rhinebeck and Newburgh.

One of the coordinators, Harry Matzen, a Professor of History at UCCC, said another Workshop is planned for next spring, with the topic to be determined later.

He said there have been some suggestions that the topic of the Hudson River should be explored further because of its great ecological and historical significance. In addition, there have been other suggestions for another Workshop dealing with Hudson River Valley crafts and antiques.

Professor Matzen said many of those who completed the recent Workshop were newcomers to the area.

"The response to the Workshop was most favorable," he said, and the participants seemed especially pleased with the informal way it was conducted by the College and the Ulster County Historical Society."

Waters Grant for Ellenville

ELLENVILLE

A state Pure Waters Program grant of $9,513.94 was approved today for the Village of Ellenville sewerage treatment plant, it was announced by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

The Ellenville grant was one of 58 Pure Waters Program grants made in 25 counties, totaling about $1,196,000 for operation and maintenance of approved water pollution control facilities in various counties of the state. Pure Waters Program grants are provided under the direction of the Department of Environmental Conservation.

The state makes annual grants on a municipal fiscal year basis of one-third of the direct cost of operating and maintaining municipal wastewater treatment plants that conform to state standards. This part of the program is designed to give substantial encouragement to municipalities to maintain high standards of waste treatment.

Italian-American League Builds Summer Camp Here

By JON POWERS

WHITEPORT

A 288-acre tract of land covering portions of the Towns of Rosendale and Hurley has been purchased by the Italian-American Civil Rights League for development into a sprawling summer camp for city children.

The site was purchased late in May for $255,000. Materials and manpower began pouring into the area almost immediately and officials now estimate that "easily" $100,000 will be spent renovating the land and buildings by the time the camp opens next weekend.

In five short weeks, a bustling summer colony has literally sprung out of the ruins of a once-abandoned and dilapidated resort. Its leaders, however, have even more far-reaching plans, hoping someday to establish a year-round settlement complete with a hospital, orphanage and narcotics rehabilitation center.

The site is located near the hamlet of Whiteport, just off Route 32, about one mile south of Old Hurley and two miles north of the village of Rosendale. The property is about one-half mile off the Lucas Turnpike and lies adjacent to the Hidden Valley recreational area.

The Italian American Civil Rights League was founded April 30, 1970 by Joseph Colombo Sr. In addition to providing assistance to needy Italian-Americans and other minority groups, the League has campaigned to have the words "Mafia" and "Cosa Nostra" dropped from common usage. It contends that the words suggest connection with criminal activity.

Special

Colombo, 47, lives in Brooklyn and owns a summer home in Washingtonville, Orange County.

He is now free on $25,000 bail after his arrest in April by federal authorities on charges of operating a multi-million dollar gambling ring. He is currently appealing a 1 to 2½ year prison sentence after he was found guilty on two counts of first degree perjury in March.

The Rights League had initially planned to establish a settlement first in Brooklyn and later in Tom's River, N.J. The Brooklyn-based plans fell through when the group failed to receive tax exempt status and the Tom's River facility was abandoned after the purchase price was unexpectedly increased.

The group then turned to Ulster County when it learned that the old Schroeder estate was on the market. The 288-acre secluded property contains 36 buildings (including 22 bungalows) and two lakes, the First and Second Binnewaters.

The camp's director is Tony DiNome, who received a Ph.D. in counseling and recreational activities. Along with a legion of attorneys, engineers and architects, he is heading the creation of the most energetic independent project ever undertaken by the League.

Scores of workers have been laboring now for five weeks to ready the camp for occupancy this summer. The main building, located in the northern corner of the property overlooking the First Binnewater, will contain offices, a recreation area for the camp's counselors and supervisors and modern dining facilities. The interior of the building will be completely refurbished and the installation of brand new stainless steel kitchen equipment was to be installed this week.

Each of the 22 bungalows has been completely renovated. The foundations have been repaired and both the interiors and exteriors freshly painted.

Adjacent to the long row of cottages are the toilet facilities, housed in a single building. Brand new toilets, stalls and shower rooms have been installed.

A separate, open-end pavilion has been completely restored and will be used for daytime arts and crafts activities. Another building, sporting new outdoor paneling, will be used to exhibit movies.

A large three-story stone building, formerly used as a hotel at the resort, will be transformed into dormitories for 80 of the camp's counselors. Still another building has been set aside for use as an infirmary, and will be completely equipped with all necessary medical equipment. A doctor and registered nurse will be on the premises at all times.

A smaller building will be used for security headquarters. Four security personnel will be stationed on the premises.

A wide assortment of recreational facilities are under construction, including a handball court, basketball courts and shuffleboard courts. A full-size softball field was cut out of the side of a small hill beneath the cottages.

Two swimming pools are being built for use this summer. One is designed specifically for the therapy treatment of children suffering from muscular dystrophy and cerebral palsy. It will include a heated whirlpool and stainless steel fixtures, railings and exercisers.

Floats are being placed on the lake to cordon off a swimming area for the older children at the camp. A huge canvas sheet will be placed under the swimming area at a depth of six feet as a precaution against swimming mishaps. A dock for a full fleet of brand new rowboats is also being put up on the lake's shore.

Wells for drinking water are being drilled. A new blacktopped road into the camp is under construction.

Builders, construction workers, masonry men, maintenance men, plumbers, electricians and engineers from New York to Kingston are working at the camp. And many of their efforts have been donated for the cause of the Italian American Civil Rights League. Many of the supplies, including the rowboats, some 200 new, double-size bunkbeds mattresses, food and furniture has also been donated to the camp.

All this is specially designed for the thousands of kids who will use the camp this summer and for years to come. The camp will handle 2,000 youngsters this year (200 a week for 10 weeks) with more expected in coming years once the facilities have been expanded. An equal number of boys and girls between the ages of 8 and 15 will vacation there this summer.

During the winter, the camp will be used as a weekend gathering place for members of the League, which now boasts a nationwide enrollment of 60,000. Only the children of League members can attend the camp.

Most of the supplies for the camp will be purchased from the Hudson Valley area. Some of the more than 100 staff members of the camp, including supervisors, cooks and groundskeepers, will be hired from Ulster County.

Phil Dioguardi, who is now overseeing all of the renovation activities at the camp and who will serve as its business manager once the facilities are completed, guided The Daily Freeman representatives an an extensive tour of the property earlier this week. It was with obvious pride that he detailed this first unified effort of the Italian-American people — an effort that, practically overnight, has led to the amazing creation of Camp Unity.

Water Boost In Rosendale Okayed by Board

ROSENDALE

Rosendale Town Board agreed Wednesday night to the Binnewater Fire Company's request for a $2,000 increase in the rate the town pays for fire protection within the district.

During a public hearing which preceded the town board's action, there was no opposition to the increase of from $5,000 to $7,000 annually.

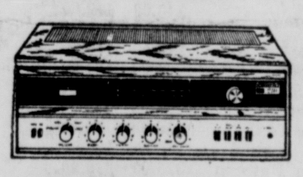

The increase takes effect Jan. 1, 1972 and will continue until the contract between the town board and the fire company expires, Dec. 31, 1973. The contract was originally signed in 1968.

In submitting its request for the increase, officials of the fire company said that the added funds were needed to offset increased operating expenses.

June 24, 1971

Dear Ulster County:

It's been a year since we came to Kingston to serve your Chrysler-Plymouth needs. The friendship, patronage and good will established during this past year have made our efforts towards the "Tops in Service" well worthwhile. We are pleased at the way we have been accepted as a full-fledged, competent, authorized Chrysler dealership. We have organized a fine group of able, experienced employees. Our service department ranks with the best, and our covered used car lot holds a really select line of all car makes.

My wife and I love this area. We are proud of our home in Woodstock. We appreciate the friendly people, the beautiful mountains, and the atmosphere of civic pride so evident in the progressive communities throughout the county.

We hope and expect to continue growing with Ulster County. Our first anniversary is but the start, we believe, of many years of service here. Your continued trust and patronage will make those years mutually pleasurable.

To those who don't know us yet, we invite a get-acquainted visit to our showrooms at 515 Albany Avenue in Kingston. You'll find us ready to go all-out to serve your automotive needs.

Yours sincerely,

Avoid Putting Nitroglycerin Pills in Boxes

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor

People who suffer from angina pectoris, the painful heart condition, are cautioned not to carry their nitroglycerin pills in pillboxes.

The pills lose potency upon such exposure rather than being kept in their original package, says a study in the Journal of the American Pharmaceutical Association. And the packaging makes a difference, too, it says, with some methods much better than others. It suggests nitroglycerin tablets be put up only in glass vials that have a plastic screw cap or snap cap—kept that way, the pills maintain adequate strength up to two months, but not so long in other kinds of containers.

Children who repeatedly eat poisonous substances may do so because they lack certain vitamins or minerals, and are hungry for them, some University of Rochester scientists think.

The youngsters may not be able to absorb the vitamins and minerals contained in their regular food. Bodily need for them may lead them to eat poisons as a possible source of the nutrients. A study is under way to check the theory.

Saved from drowning in fresh water, some people nonetheless die within a few days from "secondary drowning." Their lungs fill with a fluid that cuts down oxygen supply and too much acid accumulates in their bodies.

The usual treatment is to give them oxygen, plus a shot of alkali, but this doesn't always work. Among 10 near-drowning victims, three given the standard treatment died within 72 hours, but seven who also received an anti-inflammation drug all survived, researchers report.

The drug is methylprednisone, which acts to reduce the fluid in the lung, to improve absorption of oxygen, and to ease breathing, Arnold Sladen and Dr. Howard L. Zauder of the University of Texas Medical School, San Antonio, report in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

An infant is less likely to start sucking his thumb if he's allowed to have a pacifier for a while after weaning, a 19-year-old study in the town of Burlington, Ont., finds.

Malocclusion, or faulty bite, is associated more with children who suck on fingers or thumbs than those who don't, says Dr. Frank Popovich, University of Toronto dental scientist.

Single Americans are much less likely to have mental breakdowns than married ones, says Harold J. Dupuy, psychologist who directed a survey for the National Center for Health Statistics.

It has long been generally thought the reverse was true. But earlier studies concentrated on the marital status of people in institutions, and "if single people get into trouble they're more likely to end up in institutions," Depuy told the publication Behavior Today.

Japanese scientists have developed a fungicide which they claim cannot contaminate the soil or poison humans.

It's composed of glycine and valine, two of the elements in proteins, and growth hormone. Microbes break it down completely in the soil, so none can reach humans, reports Medical Tribune. Tests showed it more than 90 per cent effective in preventing rice blight, said Dr. Thomas Misato of the Toyko Institute of Physical and Chemical Research.

Synagogue News

Ahavath Israel

Religious services are conducted at Congregation Ahavath Israel, a Conservative Synagogue, at 10 Lucas Avenue, every Friday 8 p.m. and every Saturday 9:30 a.m. An Oneg Shabbat follows the Friday evening service and a Kiddush after the Saturday morning service. There will be no change of the form of services during the sumer months. Rabbi Harry Z. Schectman will conduct the services, deliver the sermons, and the liturgy will be chanted by Cantor David Katchen.

This Friday evening the Mourners Prayer will be offered during the services for the following whose yuhrtzeiten will be observed during the coming week: Morris Barnovitz, Lena Boskowitz, Benjamin Bush, Sam Millens, Shloima Leib Pauker, Harry Schwartz, Herbert Siller, Linda Weiselthier and Etta Geiber Zwick.

All members of the congregation and friends may attend the Oneg Shabbat this Friday evening, which will be given by Mr. and Mrs. Max Eckdish in honor of the forthcoming marriage of their son, Douglas.

Temple Emanuel

A special congregational meeting will be held following Sabbath services Friday evening at Temple Emanuel, 243 Albany Avenue. All members of the congregation are encouraged to attend this important meeting.

Sabbath srevices begin at 7:30 p.m. Services will be conducted by Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn, assisted by Dr. John Park. During services, Rachelle Robin Arlensky, new-born daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Arlensky, will receive her Hebrew name and Mrs. Pat Hamburg will be welcomed into the Jewish faith. The memories of the following persons will be invoked: Herman Projan, Jennie B. Joslovitz, Samuel Meyer, Simon L. Newland, Rose Brown.

Following services, the Oneg Shabbat will be sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Arlensky in honor of their daughter.

Agudas Achim

Shabbat services at Congregation Agudas Achim, 254 Lucas Avenue, will be conducted as follows: Mincha and Kabbalat Shabbat 7 p.m. Shabbat services at 8:30 a. m and 8:30 p.m. Rabbi Howard Gershon and Cantor Herman Slomovits will officiate. Light Shabbat candles no later than 8:21 p.m. Services are conducted daily at 7 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Anyone wishing to become a member of Congregation Agudas Achim may contact Jack Sheinvold, Mrs. Robert Selinger or Rabbi Gershon.

West Hurley Teacher Given Jenkins Award

WEST HURLEY

Mrs. Maude Corregan, fifth grade teacher at West Hurley Elementary School, has been presented the Jenkins Memorial Award by the West Hurley P-TA. Mrs. Corregan thus becomes a Life Member of the New York State Congress of Parents and Teachers and in her name a contribution has been made to be used for the Jenkins Memorial Scholarship Fund for Teacher Education or the P-TA Teacher Fellowship Fund to help recruit and keep good teachers.

Mrs. Corregan began her teaching career more than 40 years ago in a one-room school house in Ulster County, in the Spillway area. She joined the Onteora School District in 1946 as a fifth grade teacher. While at West Hurley she took course work for another degree, and for many years represented West Hurley at Teacher Association meetings. Mrs. Corregan has served in curriculum workshops and attended many BOCES Workshops.

Wedin - VanEtten Nuptials Told

Miss Ellin Mary Wedin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wedin, 43 Parkside Drive, Levittown, L.I., became the bride of Clarke Allen Van Etten, son of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Van Etten, Route 42, Shandaken, on Saturday, May 15 at St. Bernard's Church, Hempstead Turnpike, Levittown, L.I. The Rev. Father Dunn officiated at the ceremony. Traditional wedding selections were played, and three white blossom plants decorated the altar. Six white bows marked the family pews.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. She wore a white A-line gown, styled with a square neckline, short sleeves, and a built-in train with lace appliques. Lace and pearl trimming accented the top of her gown and her organdy skirt was trimmed by a panel of smocking and lace appliques. A lace and pearl cap held her four short fingertip veils and one long veil, all of which had scalloped edges. The bride carried a bouquet of white roses, daisies and baby's breath.

Miss Tricia Lennstrom of Rye, N.Y., served as maid of honor. Miss Mary Wedin, Miss Anne Wedin and Miss Lynne Cuccaro, all of Levittown, were attendants. They wore navy voile gowns with white dotted Swiss designs, styled with square necklines, fitted waists, long sheer puffed sleeves and yellow sashes at the waists. The maid of honor wore a white picture hat, accented with navy ribbons and the other attendants wore white picture hats, trimmed with white ribbons. They all carried baskets of yellow and white daisies with baby's breath and yellow bows.

Best man was Dan Aley of Big Indian. LaValle Van Etten of Woodbridge, Va.; Bob Grennie of Oliverea; and Michael Thiele of Levittown were ushers.

A buffet style dinner for 80 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents. Guests attended from Woodbridge, Va.; Levittown, N.Y.; Farmingdale, N. Y.; Massapequa, N.Y.; West Babylon; Islip; Elmont; Big Indian; Shandaken; Oliverea; Rye; Naugatuck, Conn.; Pine Hill. Mrs. Van Etten selected a turquoise sleeveless dress with white wet-look leather collar and trim a light blue coat with navy trim and white wet look accessories for her traveling ensemble to the Pocono Mountains, Pennsylvania.

The bride is a 1968 graduate of Division Avenue High School and is employed by A. E. Macadam and Company, Melville, L.I. Her husband is a 1968 graduate of Onteora Central High School and is employed in the construction field.

Military Wedding for Martha Nickerson And Lt. Gerald E. Cummins Jr. June 12

Cadet Chapel, West Point, was the setting of the wedding of Miss Martha May Nickerson, 15 C Janet Drive, Poughkeepsie, and Lt. Gerald E. Cummins Jr., Box 136, Esopus, on Saturday, June 12 at 2:30 p.m. Chaplain Mike Easterling of West Point officiated at the double ring ceremony. Dr. John Davis, organist, played "Love Story," "Romeo and Juliet" and traditional marches. Arrangements of white gladioli and carnations served as decorations.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Floyd B. Nickerson of 8908 Sudley Road, Manassas, Va., formerly of Sawkill Road, Kingston, and the late Floyd Nickerson. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Anthony Megargee, Esopus, and Gerald E. Cummins Sr., Summit, N.J.

The bride was given in marriage by her mother. She wore an empire style gown of peau de soie and chiffon. Lace and satin ribbon accented the sleeves, collar and waist. A garland headpiece of ivy, baby's breath and stephanotis held her bridal illusion veil and she carried a colonial bouquet of white roses, miniature carnations, gladioli, baby's breath, stephanotis and ivy, trimmed with white streamers. The bride and her mother made the bride's gown.

Miss Mary Nickerson, 8908 Sudley Road, Manassus, Va., was maid of honor for her sister. Miss Denise A. Nickerson, niece of the bride, Midland, Va., served as flower girl. They wore Victorian lavender floral print gowns in the empire styling. White lace trimmed the collars and sleeves and lavender ribbons accented the waists. The honor attendant wore a garland of cornflowers and baby's breath as her headpiece and carried a colonial bouquet of dark blue cornflowers, baby's breath and ivy.

Dr. John W. Baker II, 54 Mountain Road, Cornwall-on-Hudson, was best man. Saber bearers were Lt. Arthur Baker, Marshfield, Mass.; Lt. Thomas Burrell, Trona, Calif.; Lt. Wilbur Hutchcock, Laramie, Wyo.; and Lt. Walter Wright, Drexel Hill, Penn.

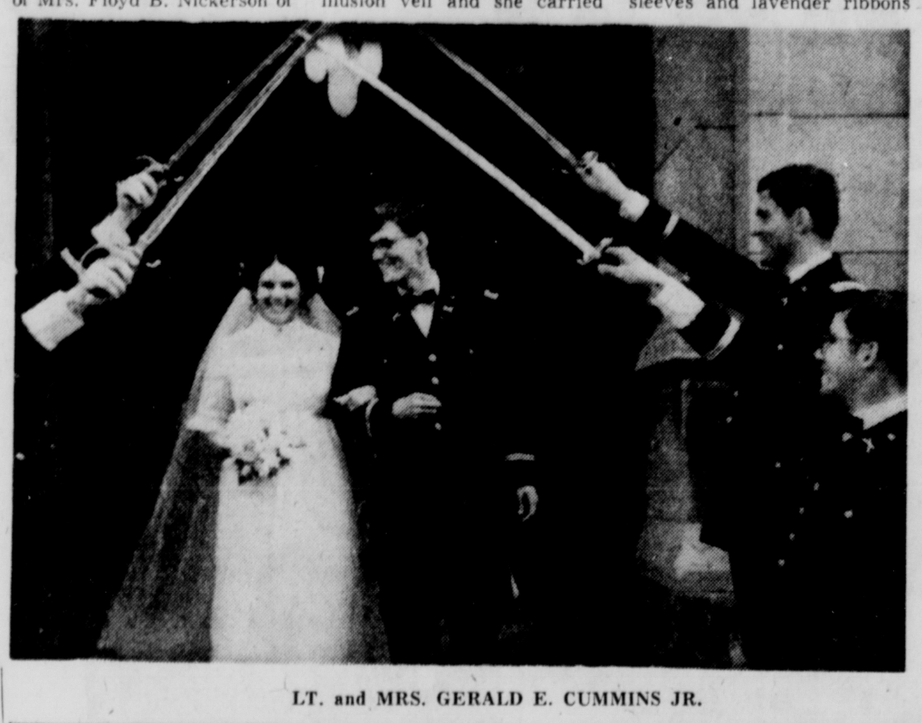

A reception for 60 guests was held at the Gold Room at West Point Officer's Club.

The couple left on a camping trip to Wyoming, Colorado and Arizona.

Mrs. Cummins is a 1965 graduate of Kingston High School and a 1969 graduate of Springfield College, Springfield, Mass., where she received a BS degree. She has been employed as a caseworker and cottage coordinator at Greer Children's Community, Hope Farm, for the past two years.

Her husband, a 1963 alumnus of Kingston High School, attended Ulster County Community College for two years. He is a 1967 graduate of U.S.M.A. Prep School at Ft. Belvoir, Va., and a June, 1971 graduate of U.S.M.A. at West Point. Lt. Cummins was appointed a commission as a 2nd lieutenant in the U.S. Army.

After airborne, ranger and basic field artillery schools in the U.S., Lt. and Mrs. Cummins will be stationed in Bambera, Germany.

LT. and MRS. GERALD E. CUMMINS JR.

Catherine Wenderoth Weds J. F. Kouhout

MRS. JOHN F. KOUHOUT
(Lakeside Studio)

Miss Catherine Alice Wenderoth and John Frederick Kouhout exchanged Nuptial vows on Saturday, June 19 at 1 p.m. at Trinity United Methodist Church. The Rev. John Mongim of Church of the Comforter officiated at the double ring ceremony. Vases of white gladioli and lavender and white pompons decorated the altar and white satin bows marked the family pews.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Emma Dammier, 484 Delaware Avenue, Kingston, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kouhout, Gristmill Road, Tillson.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her brother, Daniel Wenderoth. She wore a silk organza gown which was fashioned in the A-line styling, trimmed with Alencon lace. The train was edged with scalloped lace and her silk illusion veil was shirred to a stylized headpiece. Mrs. Kouhout carried a colonial bouquet of gladioli, daisies, miniature carnations and white roses.

Miss Rayne Kouhout, sister of the bridegroom, Gristmill Road, Tillson, served as maid of honor in an orchid chiffon over taffeta gown, fashioned with long chiffon sleeves. She carried a bouquet of white daisies with ribbons to match her gown.

Attendants were Michele Kouhout, sister of the bridegroom, Gristmill Road, Tillson; and Diane Scott, aunt of the bridegroom. Their yellow gowns were styled identically to the honor attendant's and they also carried bouquets of white daisies with ribbons to match their gowns.

Best man was Daniel Wenderoth, brother of the bride, 484 Delaware Avenue, Kingston. Ushers were William Haley, uncle of the bride, Tilden Street, Port Ewen; and Steve Longendyke, cousin of the bridegroom, Kingston.

A reception for 100 guests took place after the ceremony.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Kouhout are graduates of Kingston High School. Mrs. Kouhout is employed by Metropolitan Life Insurance Company and her husband is employed by Pilgrim Furniture Company.

Upon their return from their wedding trip to Canada, the couple will reside at 202 Tilden Street, Port Ewen.

Penelope Ross Exchanges Vows Here With William H. Gallagher

Miss Penelope Ann Ross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Ross of Kingston, became the bride of William H. Gallagher, son of Mrs. Eileen Gallagher of Qunicy, Mass., on Saturday, June 12 at 2 p.m. at St. Joseph's Church, Kingston.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Francis Brennan officiated at the double ring ceremony. The gold altar vases were filled with pink and white gladioli and chrysanthemums and white satin bows marked the family pews.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father in a white over blush pink gown. The gown featured a white Venise lace bodice, soft belle skirt and elbow puffed sleeves. She carried a colonial nosegay of white daisies and bridal pink roses.

Mrs. Douglas Kennedy of Kingston was matron of honor for her sister. Attendants were Carol Secreto, Boston, Mass.; Rose Marie Nugent, Roslindale, Mass.; Ellen Gallagher, Quincy, Mass.; Emily Gallagher, Quincy, Mass.; Dolores Jump, Kingston; and Mary Wenzel, Roslindale, Mass. They were attired in long floral polyester crepe gowns of pink lavender with off white backgrounds. Ric rac trim accented the necklines, short puffed sleeves, empire waists and hemlines of the A-line skirts. The attendants carried topiary balls of pink and white daisies with pink bows and the honor attendant carried a topiary ball of white daisies, trimmed with pink ribbons.

MRS. WILLIAM H. GALLAGHER

Timothy Gallagher, brother of the bridegroom, Quincy, Mass., served as best man. Ushers were Lawrence Donnelly, Hyde Park, Mass.; Michael Ayre, Franklin, Mass.; Robert Muchkenhoupt, Salem, Mas.; Timothy Ross, brother of the bride, Kingston; Robert Brooks, Queens; and Edward Lydon, West Roxbury, Mass.

A reception for 120 guests was held at Senate Room of Hotel Kirkland, Kingston.

The bride is a graduate of Kingston High School and Benedictine Hospital School of Nursing. Her husband, an aluminus of Milton High School, Milton, Mass., is employed as a systems analyst by Savings Corporation, Boston, Mass.

Upon their return from their wedding trip to the Bahamas, the couple will reside at West Newton, Mass.

Dear Abby

He Has Germ Phobia

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: You don't have to tell me I have a crazy husband, I already know that. What I need is some advice on what to do about it. This man absolutely refuses to eat ANYWHERE except at home, and I mean anywhere, including the lovely homes of his relatives and mine. (The only exception was his mother's home, but she is dead now.)

His excuse is that he doesn't know how clean their dishes and silverware are, and he isn't sure of the cleanliness of their pots, pans and kitchens. Now, wouldn't that startle you? I have tried to tell him that I have to assume that most people are as clean about their kitchens and utensils as I am, but he doesn't even hear me. A restaurant? Forget it!

Naturally, we can't go on out-of-town trips and our social engagements are limited too, but that's the way it has to be.

In case you think my husband is a lame-brain, he owns his own business and last year his income was in six figures. He drives a Cadillac, wears tailor-made suits and carries his lunch. Figure that out! Can you help me?

EATIN IN

DEAR EATING IN: Your husband has a "phobia" about germs. It won't kill him, but it's unfair to his family. He could possibly get over it with the help of a good phychiatrist, but if he's too selfish to seek help, I see an eternal triangle in your future—your kitchen, your husband and you!

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My wife is a schoolteacher, and as such she gets three months' vacation during the summer I have only one month vacation. She told me that she has decided to take our daughter to France for two and a half months. She says she needs the rest and the separation after eight years of marriage would be "good" for us.

Altho I do love her, I am prepared to offer her a divorce based on this solitary flight.

What is your opinion?

PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: It seem to me that you would be giving her an "ultimatum" rather than "offering" her a divorce. Loving her as you do, I would advise against such an "offer." (She may take you up on it.) Perhaps the separation would be good for both of you. Let her go with your blessings and find out.

* * *

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Doing The Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST

THE following letter has been chosen as the prize-winning one for this week. A copy of Emily Post's "Etiquette" has been sent to the writer who asked that her name be withheld.

DEAR MRS. POST: Is it proper to have our golden wedding anniversary party several days before or after the wedding date? Our only son and his family hope to be able to come from another state but because of school commitments they aren't sure when they can get away.

Our youngest grandchild will be 4 in July, and we have never seen her. Having them all with us will add the most to our happiness. We want to entertain at the proper time but more than that we want them to be here.

Mrs. B.

Dear Mrs. B.: Don't worry another minute. Have your party whenever your son and his family can be with you. Simply for convenience, most couples celebrate their anniversaries on the nearest weekend, and you have a far more compelling reason for adjusting the calendar!

* * *

DEAR MRS. POST: I am planning to have a family reunion at my house July 4. Can you give me a few ideas for entertainment and decoration?

LUCY MAITLAND

Dear Mrs. Maitland: You might think up some clever charades relating to American history. If children are included, they will get a big kick out of seeing the adults acting out Washington crossing the Delaware or Paul Revere's ride. Assign a subject to each family or divide people up in some way and give a prize to the best "act."

Naturally, you will decorate with red, white and blue. You could make a replica of a soldier's drum for a centerpiece. Fill it with small "silly" favors — sparklers, Confederate flags, paper "Uncle Sam" hats, etc., and let everyone grab for his prize.

One other suggestion: Most men enjoy target games. If you can get a rifle that shoots rubber suction cup darts, have a shooting match. If you are all Confederates, shoot at a picture of a Yank. Or make it cowboys and rustlers.

* * *

DEAR MRS. POST: My wedding will be the same day as that of an acquaintance, and we will be married in the same church. Is it up to the one who is marred first to approach the other about splitting the bills for flowers in the church? Or wouldn't this be appropriate?

CONSTANCE

Dear Constance: It would be perfectly appropriate provided both of you have the same taste in flowers. It doesn't matter which one approaches the other. Since it is your idea, you should speak up. Don't insist, however. If your friend doesn't like the idea, she should feel free to choose her own floral decorations.

Birthday Celebration Is Held

MRS. ANNIE DOYLE

A gala celebration for Northern Dutchess Hospital's most famous patient, Annie Doyle, was held Saturday, June 19 in the hospital solarium. She is 90 years old.

Annie is special to the hospital as she represents a living link with the past and with Thomas Thompson, whose generosity many years ago made possible the beginning of today's Northern Dutchess Hospital.

It is told that one hot and humid Saturday in August, 1867, a seamstress, doing some mending for the vacationing Thompsons, a wealthy Bostonian family, made a special trip on foot to return some shirts. When asked why she would walk so far in such hot weather she explained she thought Mr. Thompson might need the shirts for the Sabbath.

Deeply impressed by the hardworking woman and concerned with the circumstances which made her life a constant drudgery, Mr. Thompson vowed one day to remember her and all women like her in similar circumstances. In his will he left a share of his fortune to the needy shopgirls and seamstresses of Rhinebeck. It was with this financial aid that the Thompson House, forerunner of Northern Dutchess Hospital, was started in 1903.

Mrs. Doyle, the last direct recipient of aid under the terms of the original will, began her career as a seamstress at the age of 18 in 1899. She worked in her home, boarded with families while completing a job, traveling to her various appointments via buckboard with her sewing machine tucked away in the back. She averaged about 75 cents a day with bed and board included.

Annie made her own patterns from newspapers, sewed coats, suits, dresses, was accomplished in handsmocking and did "just anything people wanted me to do."

When she married Ernest Doyle 11 years later, she gave up her job.

Mrs. Doyle, a widow for more than 40 years, is the mother of Rhinebeck Chief of Police Roger Doyle. She has three granddaughters and two great grandchildren. She entered Northern Dutchess Hospital 14 years ago when her need for constant nursing care became too great to handle at home. To keep herself busy and to contribute something to the hospital she feels has done so much for her, Mrs. Doyle began a second career of sorts . . . potholder production. Her finished products were packaged six to a set and sold for one dollar. Although no one has kept a running total of her sales, it is probably safe to say that Annie has contributed more than $2,000 to the hospital over the years.

Annie is a woman of indomitable spirit. Although bedridden and suffering severe sight loss, she has been a source of strength to many patients who have shared a room with her.

Remarking on the occasion of her birthday she said, "I feel just as good as ever. I don't feel 90."

Conner - Camcellaro Nuptials Announced

Miss Sharon Rose Conner of 8 Huguenot Road in Tillson, became the bride of Robert Camcellaro of Rosendale on June 12 at St. Peter's Church, Rosendlae.

WOODSTOCK GARDEN CLUB held its Standard Flower Show on Saturday, June 12, in the Overlook Methodist Church Hall. A complete list of winners is available from any member of the committee which includes (L-R) Mrs. Otto E. Marquardt, Mrs. Decker Bradshaw, co-chairmen, and Mrs. Clyde Deavers, club president. Mrs. Marquardt won the highest horticulture prize — the Award of Merit — for her "Crown of Thorns" plant.

Annual Church Fair, Chicken Barbecue Slated for Saturday

Saturday, June 26 is the day of the Annual Fair and Chicken Barbecue at Christ's Lutheran Church, Woodstock, N. Y. The fair is scheduled to start at 11 a. m.; the barbecue at 4 p.m.

Ladies of the L.C.W. have met Wednesdays of each month since September to work on this yearly event. Most meetings have been spent in cutting and sewing together strips of multi-colored yard goods which were woven into rugs. Numerous other handmade items will be available some of them at workshops, many others made by the ladies at home.

In addition to the table of new articles, there will be also tables selling baked goods, plants, as well as white elephant tables which may be found inside the Fellowship Hall. A new addition this year is a table of crafts prepared by the Youth Group of our church, as well as a Fish Pond; both to be handled by members of the Youth Group. There will be also a hot-dog stand operating during the early part of the day.

Weather permitting, the Chicken Barbecue will be prepared and served outdoors.

Donations are $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children under 12. Served with the chicken will be potato salad, cole slaw, cranberry jelly, rolls and butter, as well as home-baked cakes, coffee, iced tea, and milk.

Annual Festival, Bazaar Planned This Weekend

The annual feast and bazaar of St. John, sponsored by St. Liberata-St. John Benevolent Association of East Kingston, will be held at the picnic grounds in East Kingston on Saturday and Sunday

Festivities will begin at 5 p.m. Saturday with an assortment of games. Refreshments will be sold. A spaghetti and meatball supper will be served from 5 to 8 p.m. Tickets may be obtained at the bazaar.

On Sunday, after the 10 a.m. Mass at the field chapel, the feast celebration and bazaar will continue. A penny social is slated at 2 p.m.

The public is invited. There is no admission charge to the picnic grounds.

James Potter Receives Degree

James S. Potter, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Potter, 193 Horton Lane, Port Ewen, was one of 451 graduates of the University of Tampa receiving degrees at the largest commencement exercises in the University's history on May 26.

Potter received a bachelor of science degree with a major in business.

Commencement speaker was Dr. David M. Delo, who retired as president of the University of Tampa on June 1 and became the University's first chancellor.

SLAMMING BACK — America's top woman tennis player, Billie Jean King of Long Beach Calif., returns a shot from Wendy Gilchrist of Australia in the Wimbledon Championships Wednesday. Mrs. King won in three sets. (UPI CABLEPHOTO).

Unfinished Drama On Center Court

By GEOFFREY MILLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — The center court here was set today for the final scene of an unfinished tennis drama.

The participants were Cliff Richey, the U.S. Davis Cup star from Sarasota, Fla., and Roger Taylor of England, Britain's brightest tennis star. They were tied at two sets all, and 7-7 in the deciding set, when darkness halted play Wednesday.

Richey won the first set 6-2, lost 3-6 and 2-6, but came back to win the fourth set 6-4 to tie the match. After two protests from Taylor, tournament referee Mike Gibson called the match.

Richey knows perfectly well that the Wimbledon fans will be rooting for Taylor, a rugged left-hander who last year toppled Rod Laver of Australia. But if that bothers him, Richey is not showing it.

The tie-breaking scoring system, being used at Wimbledon for the first time this year, doesn't apply in a fifth set, so Richey and Taylor will just have to slug it out the old-fashioned way. The first man to break service will probably advance to the third round.

Richey is the No. 6 seed. Two other Americans, Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., and Arthur Ashe of Gum Spring, Va., have already made the third round. Smith cruised past John Paish of Britain yesterday, 6-1, 6-4, 6-4. Ashe mastered Patrick Proisy of the French Davis Cup team, 6-4, 6-4,, 6-4

Three other prominent American players did not fare as well.

Charles Pasarell of Santurce, P.R., was upset by Adriano Panatta of Italy 6-3, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, in the men's second round.

Sentimental favorite Pancho Gonzales was beaten by Pierre Barthes of France, 7-5, 8-9, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, in a center court duel which lasted over three hours.

Rosemary Casals of San Francisco, No. 4 seed in the women's singles, was beaten 7-5, 6-4 by Kerry Melville, the Australian with the powerful foreheand.

In other matches, Rod Laver of Australia, the top seed in the men's singles, bested Ray Moore of South Africa, 6-8, 6-3, 6-2, 7-5, and Tom Gorman of Seattle, the unseeded American who eliminated No. 8 seed Cliff Drysdale of South Africa, beat Ezio di Matteo of Italy, 2-6, y-2, 6-2, 6-1.

Cornwall Jolts Braves, 3-2

KINGSTON — The Kingston Braves had plenty of opportunities in their ball game at Dietz Stadium last night but failure to capitalize enabled Cornwall to take the Hudson Valley Rookie League tilt, 3-2.

Three times Kingston had the tying run on third base but could not bring it across. So instead of an expected easy victory, the Braves were beaten by a Southern Division team which has been struggling to maintain a .500 record.

Afterwards, Manager Bernie Schaeffer closed the door to the Braves clubhouse to talk things out with his team.

Cornwall scored its runs in the third inning off of starter Tom Gallo, who was to suffer his first defeat after two wins. Bruce Rostanzo opened the frame with a single and Owen Smith sacrificed him to second. John Wood then popped out and it looked like Gallo would get out of the inning.

But John Khare lined a base hit to score Rostanzo followed by another single, this one by Greg Ransom. On the play, Braves center fielder John Carter bobbled the ball allowing Khare to score and sending Ransom to second. Dick Greeves slugged a hit and a third run came in.

Kingston tallied its pair in the fifth as Carter led off with a single, Dave Horton was hit by a pitch, and Jerry Hawkins walked to fill the bases. A wild pitch scored Horton and Pete Watzka's sacrifice fly brought home Gallo, who had reached on a force play. Hawkins advanced to third on Watzka's fly and when Chick Boice walked the Braves first baseman was sent to second in hopes that Hawkins would score if Cornwall misplayed the ball.

However, Boice, never known for his speed, was nabbed before the Hawk could get in and the threat was killed.

Kingston threatened again in the sixth as George Geanuleas tripled and Carter walked after two were down. But Horton grounded out to end the inning.

Then in the final stanza, Hawkins walked, stole second, and went to third on an infield out. Boice left him there by bouncing out.

Kingston is now 6-2 on the year and will meet Warwick in Dietz Stadium Friday night at 8 p.m.

Donohue Smiling Now

MOUNT POCONO, Pa. (AP) — Moon-faced Mark Donohue is smiling again.

He went out in the cool of the afternoon Wednesday and whizzed around the new Pocono International Raceway at a shade above 172 miles per hour.

The speed was the fastest recorded during five days of practice for the July 3 Schaefer 500 mile race, but for Donohue it ended days of frustration that began several weeks ago at Indianapolis.

It had taken the 32-year-old Brown University alumnus two days to get his Roger Penske-McLaren racer up to speed. And, as one trackside observer put it, it was one of the few times in the illustrious Panske-Donohue association that the team wasn't ready to race when it arrived at the track.

The reasons were numerous.

For one thing, the Sunoco-Blue McLaren-Offy was demolished in a wreck during the May 29 Indianapolis 500—after Donohue had led that $1 million classic for 62 laps and appeared en route to an easy victory.

The car had to be rebuilt for the $400,000 Pocono race at a cost of more than $50,000.

In between Donohue lost two straight Trans-Am races in his Penske Javelin, and was forced out of the Lemans 24-hour race after three hours when the engine failed in his Penske Ferrari. He was running second at the time.

New Yorker Pete Revson, who beat Donohue for the pole at Indy, was the first driver to break the 170 m.p.h. barrier at Pocono. The team McLaren driver was clocked at 170.3 during a late afternoon run Wednesday.

Several top speedsters flirted with the 170 barrier Wednesday, among them Joe Leonard, his teammate, two-time Indy winner Al Unser, and the veteran A.J. Foyt.

Al Unser had recorded a lap at 169.2 while Leonard and Foyt both lere in the 168-plus range.

Two days of practice remain before time trials begin at 10 a.m. Saturday to fill a 33-car field for the Schaefer 500.

Longtoe Slams Two Home Runs

SAUGERTIES — Don Longtoe smashed two homers, driving in four runs while Ray Scully hit his fifth of the season and drove in five ribbys as Eveready Beverages defeated Rotron Corporation, 11-5 in a Blue Division game of the Saugerties Softball League. In another game, the Knights of Columbus downed Helsmoortel Insurance, 13-7.

John Danford had three hits to attain a league-leading mark of .682. Charlie Winpen had two hits and two ribbys for the losers.

The Knights of Columbus moved to within a half-game of the leaders. Jack Driscoll and Chuck Ollinger paced the winners with two singles and a double each.

Houston Group Buys Rockets

BOSTON (AP) — Pro basketball is returning to Houston for another try—and this time it will have hometown hero Elvin Hayes going for it.

The Big E, and the rest of the San Diego Rockets are now the Houston Rockets via sale of the franchise Wednesday night to a group which will operate it in the Texas city beginning right away.

Announcement of the shift was made by NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy at a hastily called news conference during the league's annual board of governors' meetings. He said the sale price was $5.6 million.

Houston's first experience with a pro basketball team was a failure, with the American Basketball Association's Mavericks operating there two seasons from 1967-69 before moving out and becoming the Carolina Cougars.

This time, however, there will be the added attraction of Hayes, who led the University of Houston to basketball prominence, including a nationally televised upset of the Lew Alcindor-led UCLA juggernaut, and has continued his stardom through three pro seasons with the Rockets.

Kennedy said the NBA had been eyeing Houston as a potential franchise site in any event, and was thus in a position to act quickly when the San Diego sale proposal was pit before the board.

Wise, 0-Hitter, 2 HRs, Keeps Cool

By JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer

Rick Wise's first major league victory seven years ago may have been a portent of the future.

It came in the second game of a doubleheader against the New York Mets and may be one of the least remembered games of all time. Least remembered because in the opening game, Jim Bunning pitched a perfect game against the Mets.

Wednesday night was Wise's turn to enter baseball's record book as he pitched the second no-hitter of the 1971 season in leading the Philadelphia Phillies to a 4-0 victory over the Cincinnati Reds. Wise added icing to the cake by slamming two home runs and driving in three runs in sending the Reds to their second no-hit loss in three weeks.

Ken Holtzman of the Chicago Cubs had a no-hitter against Cincinnati earlier this season.

Wise, whose no-hitter was the first for the Phils since Bunning's Father's Day classic in 1964, retired Pete Rose, for the last out. He received a standing ovation (third baseman) John Vukovich to

"I wasn't a bit nervous," said Wise, a 6-foot-2, 195-pound right-hander from Jackson, Mich. "I was well aware of the situation but I wasn't nervous. I didn't want to lose the no-hitter on a bunt and I asked (third baseman) John Vukovich to watch for one in the ninth."

"The fans, they were tremendously courteous," said Wise. "I understand they gave Ken Holtzman the same kind of encouragement."

The victory was Wise's eighth against four losses this season and evened his lifetime mark at 61-61. "From now on I hope to stay over .500, too," added Wise.

The tall right-hander allowed only one man—Dave Concepcion—to reach base, walking him in the sixth inning. "I rushed myself and fell behind on him," Wise explained.

Elsewhere in the National League, Pittsburgh whipped New York 6-2, San Francisco downed Chicago 5-2, St. Louis shaded Los Angeles 3-1 in 10 innings, Montreal stopped Atlanta 6-3 and San Diego swept Houston 3-2 in 12 innings and 4-3.

Wise followed a double by Roger Freed in the fifth inning with his first homer and added his second in the eighth. He now has hit four homers this season and has pitched complete game victories in four of his last five starts.

Ken Henderson and Juan Marichal, who gained his 10th victory, hit home runs to lift the Giants over Chicago. Henderson led off the eighth with his homer, his third hit of the game, to snap a tie and help the Giants boost their winning streak to seven games.

Lou Brock and Joe Torre each singled in runs in the 10th inning as St. Louis beat the Dodgers. Luis Melendez led off the 10th with a pinch-hit single and singles by Matty Alou, Brock and Torre snapped a tie.

Rusty Staub drove in three runs with a pair of singles and Dan McGinn and John Strohmayer pitched Montreal out of a bases-loaded jam in the seventh inning as the Expos downed Atlanta.

Angel Bravo's pinch-hit double with two out in the bottom of the ninth scored Dave Campbell from first with the winning run as the Padres swept Houston. Tommy Dean singled home Enzo Hernandez with two out in the bottom of the 12th to boost the Padres to victory in the opener.

PITCHER-SLUGGER — Pitcher Rick Wise of the Phillies is congratulated at home plate by Roger Freed after Wise hit one of two home runs in addition to pitching no-hit game against the Reds. The final score was 4-0. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Willie Would Rather Be First

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Willie Stargell isn't a manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, but if he were, the star leftfielder might be shopping for a first base mitt.

The slugging Stargell, easily the most productive hitter in the majors this year, senses another knee operation coming on, and he feels his durability might be increased if he switched positions.

A change from left field to first base, a position Stargell has played sporadically throughout his big league career isn't likely.

Danny Murtaugh, the Pirates manager, indicates Bob Robertson and Vic Davalillo will continue to play first and says he has no plans to move Stargell.

"I don't think playing Stargell at first would help his legs any," Murtaugh said. "You've got to make many more plays at first than you do in left field and I don't know of any big league players who set any speed records going from the dugout to the outfield before any inning. I don't think that part of it has anything to do with conserving Stargell's legs."

One thing so far, Stargell could be playing on crutches and still be scoring a lot of runs. His home run in Wednesday night's 6-2 Pirate victory over the New York Mets was his 26th of the season, and he also boosted his RBI total to 72, another major league high.

Stargell, who hit 11 homers and drove in 27 runs in April had a modest May by comparison, but this month, with seven games left on the schedule, the 30-year-old strong man has homered nine times and batted in 30 runs. But Stargell, who had knee operations in 1964 and 1965, fears further damage, particularly in his left leg.

"The left one, hurts a lot," big league career in the outfield, but Murtaugh prefers to keep Stargell in left where said. "It feels much like it did the last time I had to have surgery and I feel certain the cartilage damage will require another knee operation at the end of the season."

That surgery would have to be delayed if the Pirates make the World Series, and right now they are 4 1-2 games better than the second place Mets in the National League's Eastern Division.

As for playing first base. Stargell perked up when it was suggested. "Man that would be all-right," he said. "but making out the line-up isn't my department."

Robertson, bothered by tendonitis of the wrist, sat out his second straight game Wednesday night with the veteran Davalillo taking over. Davalillo is a relative stranger to first base having spent most of his he will probably start for the National League in next month's All-Star game in Detroit.

Stargell's homer in the first came with two men aboard off New York right hander Gary Gentry. The next inning, Stargell dounled home a run, knocking out Gentry and the Pirates made their final two runs in the fifth off Tug McGraw on Richie Hebner's triple and Milt May and Dave Cash singles.

Roberto Cemente who along with Bill Mazeroski is the only holdover from the Pirate's last penannt winner in 1960, collected four hits incuding the 2,000th single of his career.

After considerable thought, Clemente said he still rates the 1960 Pittsburgh team as being better than this one. But if Stargell finishes the season the way he started, even Clemente is capable of changing his opinion.

McDaniel Had 5th Pitch - Courage

NEW YORK (AP) — Somewhere out in New York Yankeeland lives a new Lindy McDaniel fan who had it proved to him in dramatic fashion Wednesday night that quitting doesn't solve anything.

"This fan wrote me a letter saying I should get out of baseball," the veteran relief pitcher disclosed after blanking the Detroit Tigers with four hitless innings and getting credit for the Yankees' 6-5 victory when light-hitting Gene Michael lined his first home run—and sixth of his career—off the left field foul pole with one out in the 13th inning.

"He said he read in a magazine article where I had four pitches," McDaniel went on, "and he said that was a joke, that the only pitch I had was a base hit pitch.

"I wrote back that the way I'd been pitching I could understand his feelings. But I told him I thought he had some pretty simple solutions to the problems of life and that you don't win anything by quitting. I just got another letter from him, a real nice one in which he wished me luck."

After a brilliant 1970 campaign in which he won nine games and saved 29 with an earned run average of 2.01, McDaniel suddenly turned sour this season for the third time in his 16-year major league career. Before Wednesday night's game he had a 2-6 record, 6.48 ERA—it took two good outings last week to get it down that low—and had been tagged for eight home runs in only 33 1-3 innings.

McDaniel got his chance Wednesday after the Tigers pounded Fritz Peterson and Jack Aker for five runs in the ninth inning, with pinch hitter Gates Brown drilling Aker's first pitch for a game-tying three-run homer.

McDaniel came on in the 10th with a runner on second and none out and squirmed out of that threat with "probably the best fielding play I've ever made in such a crucial situation." With Willie Horton on third and two down, he raced to the third base line, fielded Mickey Stanley's bunt bare-handed and, with no chance to get Stanley at first, nailed Horton in a rundown at the plate.

But he was even happier with his pitching, which until last week had been a major reason for the Yankees' sluggish start coming off a surprising second-place finish in the American League East.

Boog Powell, Blue Moon Are Back on the Ball

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Boog Powell and Blue Moon Odom are back on the ball . . . and the Chicago White Sox are all over it.

Powell cracked two home runs and a single Wednesday night, pacing the Baltimore Orioles to a 7-5 victory and finally bringing his batting average over the .200 mark.

Odom, the Oakland blazer who missed the first month of the season following elbow surgery, shut out Minnesota for 7 2-3 innings and beat the Twins 8-3 with relief help in the ninth to square his pitching record at 3-3.

And, in an afternoon game, the White Sox continued to apply their newfound sock, walloping Kansas City 12-3 for their fourth straight triumph and a 46-run total during the winning streak.

Elsewhere in the American League, the New York Yankees nipped Detroit 6-5 on Gene Michael's 13th inning homer; Boston edged Cleveland 2-1 on a homer by Joe Lahoud and Milwaukee split a doubleheader with California, winning 6-0 and then bowing 9-5.

Powell, the American League's most valuable player last season, took a .178 average into Washington Monday night but has boosted it 31 points to .219 after drilling nine hits, for eight RBI, in the three games in which he has batted.

His 10th and 11th homers accounted for three Baltimore runs Wednesday night, helping Jim Palmer gain his 10th victory with ninth inning relief help.

Frank Howard hit his 10th homer for the Senators during a four-run rally in the ninth.

Odom, who had failed to last seven innings in six previous starts since coming off the disabled list, blanked the Twins on three hits until Harmon Killebrew singled and Rich Reese homered with two out in the eighth. Ron Perranoski replaced Odom after Leo Cardenas' leadoff homer in the ninth.

Rick Monday drove in three runs with a double and single and Curt Blefary homered to trigger the Oakland attack.

Lahoud's seventh inning homer at Boston decided a pitching duel between winner Ray Culp, who flipped a five-hitter, and Cleveland's Sam McDowell, who also yielded five hits and struck out 14.

Herdegen Track Honors To St. Augustine Squad

KINGSTON

Jeff LoCiccero, St. Joseph's, chalked up three wins in the Tyro division. But, that wasn't enough as St. Augustine's of Highland won the Ulster County CYO Father Herdegen Memorial Track Meet staged at Dietz Stadium.

The team trophy was presented to the Highland team and all individual winners were awarded gold, silver and bronze CYO medals for first, second and third place.

LoCiccero won the 50-yard dash, the four-pound shot put and the low hurdles. Times and distances were not available.

The results:

Sharpe Is New Assistant

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

KINGSTON — For as long as I can remember, the little boy down the road wanted nothing more in this world than to some day be a golf professional.

Today, the "little boy" is a handsome, strapping 6-foot-1, 210-pound, 25-year-old launching his career toward that ultimate objective. And the folks on Ohayo Mountain Road in Woodstock where he spent his boyhood with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Sharpe Jr., are pretty proud of the young man.

Alex Sharpe III recently joined the Wiltwyck Country Club staff as assistant to head pro, Bill Reilly. It is his first golf assignment and ahead of him is the tortuous road of building 40 credits in his apprenticeship, a stint in the Professional Golfers Association school and ultimately Class A status.

But Shapre, who is known as "Chip", is undismayed by the long grind. He is doing what he wants to do and he knows that surely some day he will be a Class A pro. And he couldn't find a better pro to work with.

"I think Mr. Reilly (Bill Reilly) is a sound pro and one of the finest teaching pros in the Northeast," said Sharpe. "I feel very fortunate to be able to start my career with him. I couldn't possibly find a better tutor."

A well-mannered young man who hits the ball "a ton," Sharpe is a product of Onteora High School, where he played varsity golf under Coach Wes Kissel. He played No. 1 singles on the Ricker College varsity at Houlton, Me., before entering the United States Air Force.

Sharpe was stationed at Fort Lee, Va., for four years and was involved in numerous service tournaments. He was a member of the USAF team representing the 20th NURAD Region.

At Fort Lee, he placed third in the base championship his first year, was runnerup the second and third years and finally won the Fort Lee title in his fourth year. He participated in the Aerospace Defense Command Championship at Kansas City where he placed sixth and missed the All-Air Force team by one stroke.

Upon his return to Fort Lee, Sharpe found an invitation to the Bing Crosby Pro-Am at Pebble Beach awaiting him. But the service has ways of messing up a mans' dream sometimes and it happened to Chip. He was unable to meet the schedule.

Sharpe was discharged from the service on June 7, 1971. He learned of the opening at Wiltwyck and applied for the job. He makes his debut as an assistant pro player on July 19 in the Northeastern New York PGA Assistants tournament at a site to be announced.

Meanwhile, he will be doing what comes naturally, working to be a Class A golf pro.

Decker Hurls BRL 0-Hitter, Fans 16

KINGSTON — Dave Decker fired a no-hitter, striking out 16 and walking three as the VFW bested the Elks, 2-1, in a Babe Ruth League contest. In the only other game played on the BR circuit, the Legion downed Rock Construction, 17-6.

Decker dueled John Stote in his no-hit effort. Stote also struck out 16 and walked but three. However, he was touched for six hits, including a triple by Decker.

Back-to-back doubles by Walt Debrosky and Mark Brown gave the winners their first run. The Elks tied it on a walk and two errors. Decker broke the tie in the fourth as he tripled and came home on Wayne Ruger's bunt single.

Decker was in trouble in the sixth inning when, with one out, two men reached on errors. Decker then K'd the next two men, pitching his way out of the trouble.

Duane Carey and Ken Foster were the big guns for the Legion. Carey drove in six runs with a bases-loaded triple and a three-run homer. Foster had four rbis on a grand-slam belt in the seven-run fifth. Carey's homer also came in that inning. He hit his triple in the 10-run third stanza.

Phil Pallidino had three hits in four trips, one double and two ribbys for the losers.

Winning pitcher Dave Brandin also had two hits and scored twice. Foster scored three times to go with his four ribbys. Carey tallied twice to go with his six runs-batted-in. Lou Casciaro was the losing pitcher. He issued 10 walks and struck out five. Lee Geanuleas pitched in relief.

Milano Shines On

KINGSTON — Young Jim Milano continues to shine on the mound.

Milano is the Kingston High School sophomore who rose from the junior varsity to varsity within the course of this past season due to his great record against JV foes.

Now Jim is hurling for Kingston's American Legion Juniors and batters from surrounding counties are finding out what all the excitement is about.

Milano's latest game was on Tuesday in Dietz Stadium and he responded with a three-hit shutout as Kingston whipped Catskill, 3-0. Jim fanned 11 while walking just two and was never in any serious trouble as his mates provided him with a first inning lead and sixth inning insurance.

Kingston's first run was set up by leadoff man Jimmy Ferraro, who greeted Catskill chucker Don Walsh with a resounding two-bagger in the right center field gap. George Geanuleas singled to advance Ferraro to third and he scored on an error by catcher Chuck Zwickel.

Milano and Walsh then matched goose eggs until the sixth. Geanuleas was the first man up and he clubbed a drive to right field for a home run to make the score 2-0. After Don Lackaye was retired, Steve Van Kleeck bounced a single as did Ralph Perry. On the latter's hit, Van Kleeck came all the way around to cross the plate with the final tally.

Kevin McGowan then doubled but he and Perry were left stranded.

Kingston's win was its third of the season without a defeat.

Paul Ruggie's Homer Helps Village Jug Sink Submarines

KINGSTON — A towering two-run homer by Paul Ruggie in the bottom of the fifth inning broke a 4-4 tie and the Village Jug went on to defeat Bud's Submarine Sandwich Shop, 8-4, in a National Division B tilt of the City Slow Pitch Softball League.

Ruggie also had a double while Ken Baum went three-for-three for the winners and Mike Patrick added a triple. Earl Edmonds homered and Jesse Adams went three-for-three for the losers.

Joe Shabot homered and Tony Erena twirled a four-hitter as Tony's Pizzeria edged the Alpine, 6-5. Mike Burns, John Falvey and Roger Donovan had two hits apiece for the winners.

John Cook hit a four-bagger and Lou Ganci went three-for-three as the Jets downed the Born Losers, 7-3. Art Davis added two hits for the winners and Gary Snyder doubled. Bruce Chambers homered and John Hoovers went three-for-three for the losers.

Ron Theiss blasted two homers and had four hits in five trips as Anchorage I tripped Uhl Construction, 17-15. George Barnes also homered for the winners and went five-for-five John Vogt tripled and had four hits in five trips.

Bob Gorsline, Bob Clausi and Rick Clausi homered for the Constructionmen. Tony Causa wnt three-for-six and Bob Rick Clausi went three-for-five for the losers.

Scholastic Stars Make Their Point

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

KINGSTON — The dream probably won't come true this weekend.

But the scholastic contingent already has made its point in the 21st annual Herdegen Memorial Golf Tournament.

It is the best group ever to compete in the 72-hole classic and would have been even more potent with Dave Blakely in the field.

None of the scholastics is going to beat Leon Randall or Harvey Bostic in the tournament that resumes Saturday at Sawyerkill Country Club and concludes Sunday at The Twaalfskill Club. The fine showing of the group—picking up nine of the 27 qualifying spots and fielding the lowest shooter at at Wiltwyck—was a vital factor in the future of the Herdegen. It guaranteed the continuation of the Ulster County Amateur Championship, under this writer's direction, at least.

Biggest find in the 36-hole qualifier was tall, rangy Erick Krieger, a power-hitting Ellenville High School junior, whose booming tee shots reminded the golf buffs of Dave Blakely and Harvey Bostic at their best.

Krieger had the presence of mind to tour Wiltwyck's steaming par 36-36-72 layout in 37-36 73 to lead the 54-player contingent. Krieger adds a new dimension to the tournament, the irresistible lure that always surrounds big hitters in golf.

Perhaps the most improved player among the collegians was Don Treat of Sawyerkill. The Sawyerkill caddie master and Rider College player turned in the finest medal performance of his career to grab a qualifying berth with 80-82-162.

The high school qualifiers besides Krieger were: Scotty Dean (159) and Vlad Hoyt (161) of Onteora High; Doug Tatara (161) and Terry Allred (162) of Kingston High.

Joe Bostic, the UCCC star, fired a 69 in the first round at Woodstock and finished with 152 for a fifth-place tie with George Cosenza. John Buoymaster, the former Onteora High ace now at Williams College, tied Treat's 62 and Andrew Rubin, the Woodstock Country Club champion who plays at Long Beach State in California, salvaged on of the last qualifying berths with 164, the cutoff figure.

Harold Van Aken and Bill Odennal, who are five shots off the pace, have an outside shot at Randall or Bostic, but it's strictly 100-1 stuff because of the finishing courses Sawyerkill and Twaalfskill.

In the 1970 tournament—first ever at Sawyerkill-Randall posted 77, Odeneal 76, Bostic 80 and Harold Van Aken 78. Playing conditions at Sawyerkill are vastly improved over last year, making the six-stroke margin almost impossible to overcome.

When the tournament goes to Twaalfskill Sunday, well, unless some golfer has a six-stroke lead over Randall, forget it.

Randall's amazing mastery of The Twaalfskill layout is incredible. In 17 tournaments there, The Man With the Magic Putter has averaged 70.05. Six times he has bettered Twaalfskill's 35-35-70 and on three different occassions (1957, 1959 and 1970) has reached five-under-par 70. His other sub-par rounds have been two 69's and a 68. His highest score ever at Twaalfskill was a 76 in 1958.

With that kind of record behind him at Twaalfskill, it is safe to predict that some time around 1 p.m. Sunday, Leon Randall will have achieved his ninth Berdegen title.

The scholastics? Well, they've done a lot better than we expected.

Seminar Set At Kutsher's

MONTICELLO — A sports seminar which will attract the leading athletes and coaches of the country will be held at Kutsher's Country Club June 25 to 27.

Among those who will speak are the coach of the Kansas City Chiefs, Hank Stram, three New York Yankee stars, Roy White, Mel Stottlemyre, and Felipe Alou, and ace New York Knickerbocker backcourtman, Walt Frazier.

Frazier, in addition to his appearance at the seminar, will remain at Kutsher's this summer to serve as basketball director of the Club's Sports Academy.

Community Development Amendment

Bell, Rolison Oppose Move

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON — An amendment to the state constitution aimed at sweeping revisions in laws governing "community development" is on the ballot this year. Ulster County's two representatives in Albany, Assemblyman H. Clark Bell and State Senator Jay P. Rolison Jr., are opposed to it.

The amendment would allow the state to "grant or lend money out of the general fund of the state or grant property to any individual, partnership, trust, association, private or public corporation or local government for community development purposes."

The amendment would also allow the raising of debt limits of every municipality in the state depending on its size. The borrowing limit of the City of Kingston and of Ulster County would be raised from seven to nine per cent based on the last five years' assessment average.

Rolison, who represents Dutchess and Ulster Counties, voted for the amendment when presented for "first passage" in 1970 but "after careful consideration and study," voted against it this year.

Bell has voted against the proposal three times, opposing it in the Assembly in 1970 and 1971 and at the Constitutional Convention where he was a delegate in 1967.

The amendment also would allow the state to grant or authorize tax exemptions or abatements in whole or in part for community development purposes for periods not to exceed 60 years.

While Rolison is "definitely against" the proposal Bell seemed to leave the door open for further revisions. "Get me some legislative controls and checks and balances," Bell told The Freeman, "and I'd be very happy to vote for it." Bell said he felt the amendment would prove to be a "blank check" for developers. "It's too wide open," he said.

Both legislators pointed out that the amendment had originally been accompanied by a massive bond issue to carry out community development. The bond issue was later withdrawn by the governor, leaving the program unfunded. Bell and Rolison are opposed to that.

The community development program, if approved by the voters this fall, would probably be administered by the Urban Development Corporation.

Rolisons' thinking on UDC, apparently has changed over the years since he voted against it in the Senate in 1968. "I think they've really tried to work with local governments," Rolison said. "UDC, as far as I know, has been quite satisfactory in Kingston working with Mayor (Francis R.) Koenig."

UDC was one of Governor Rockefeller's proposals on community development that passed in the legislature in 1968, funded with a billion dollar bond issue.

Mayor Koenig, shortly after his election in November of 1969, contacted officials from UDC on a proposal to build apartment houses in the Broadway East urban renewal area. Ground was broken on a $3.5 million, 131-unit apartment complex on a 10-acre site above the new city hall site and below St. Mary's Church.

The amendment to the state constitution will appear on the ballot this year as Article XVIII —Community Development.

Preliminary Hearings in Ellenville for Two

ELLENVILLE — Preliminary hearings for two Sullivan County teenagers arrested on second degree assault counts stemming from an incident at a local hotel bar, will be held July 15 before Town Justice Harold Sashin, according to village police.

Frederick Bryant, 18, and Robert Stubbs, 19, both of Monticello, were arrested earlier this week after they allegedly beat Salvatore Graffeo, owner of the Shamrock Hotel and Restaurant, and his son, John, a bartender at the establishment during a mele.

The Graffeos were treated at the Ellenville Community Hospital for multiple injuries as the result of the alleged attack.

Police Justice Ronald W. Elias, who presided at the early arraignment of the defendants, dismissed a bail order of $1,000 and released Bryant in custody of his mother so that he could continue attending classes at Monticello High School, authorities said. Elias lowered bail of $5,000 previously set for Stubbs to $750.

Elias has disqualified himself from presiding at further proceedings in the case and referred the hearings to Judge Sashin, police said.

Olga Bitter Upon Florida Return

MIAMI (AP) — Olga Scarpetta returned to New York Wednesday, bitter over a Florida judge's decision that her baby should remain with a couple that had earlier been ordered to surrender the infant by a New York court.

Miss Scarpetta, 33, had placed the child up for adoption shortly after her birth in New York 13 months ago. Later, she tried to reclaim the child, Lenore, from Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas DeMartino who had brought the infant into their Brooklyn home.

New York courts ruled the adoption agency had to return the child, but DeMartino, an attorney, moved his family and Lenore to Florida.

Tuesday, a Florida circuit court judge ruled Lenore should remain with the DeMartinos.

"I can't believe any judge would make a decision like that when there were court orders telling them to turn the child over to me," Miss Scarpetta said before boarding her New York-bound plane.

"I can't have any respect for Mr. DeMartino. He's a lawyer, a man sworn to uphold the laws.

"Yet he breaks the laws of his own state. How is he going to teach her moral principles and respect for the law?" she said.

Speaking on the verge of tears, the Colombian-born secretary said, "If they ever get to keep the baby, if they are ever rewarded for their wrongdoing, it will be against my every wish."

Another hearing in the interstate custody fight for Lenore is scheduled here for June 29 but Miss Scarpetta doesn't know if she'll be present. She wants to put in as many working days as she can, she said.

"When I get the baby—and I know I will get her back—I want to have about two months with her. So I want to miss as little time as possible at work," she said.

Six Men Are Wounded In Buffalo Shootings

BUFFALO (AP) — Six men, including an off-duty Erie County deputy sheriff, were wounded in shooting incidents Wednesday and early today.

Five men were shot around midnight in an Inner City neighborhood. The sixth victim, a bus driver, was wounded Wednesday evening while operating his vehicle.

Frederick Miles, 34, the deputy, suffered shotgun pellet wounds in the face, arms and chest, police said. He was treated and released in good condition at Deaconess Hospital.

Also wounded in the same incident were Lemax Smith, 23, Leroy Cody, 21; Alfred Jackson, 30; and James Taylor, 17. All were treated for pellet wounds and released.

Harry Peiffer, 59, of suburban Cheektowaga, the bus driver, was in fair condition in Emergency Hospital. Police said he was wounded in the face, shoulder and abdomen by pellets fired through an open window of his bus.

Investigators blamed the midnight shooting on rivalries between teen-age gangs. Police said Miles was in the area to cool gang battling.

An off-duty city policeman who was with Miles at the time said he doubted that they were the targets. The policeman said the shots might have been intended for others with whom they were talking.

Police said most of the pellets were apparently fired from a distance.

Witnesses to the Peiffer shooting said the driver was wounded by youths concealed in tall grass near a railroad overpass. Two youths, unidentified because of their ages, were held for Family Court action in the incident.

One Million Drug Users In New York

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — A State Narcotic Addiction Control Commission study estimates there are more than 1 million marijuana users in New York.

The study 170-page study report was based on a survey conducted by the commission during six months prior to last August.

The study concentrated on only 7,500 persons, but commission officials projected the findings on the entire state population of 18 million and came up with these estimates:

— 1,032,000 persons used marijuana during the study period and 487,000 of them used it regularly, that is, more than six times a month.

— The majority of the regular marijuana users were males, under 25-years-old, had completed at least high school and used no other drug.

— Heroin users in the state numbered 64,000 with about half of them, 32,000, using the drug regularly.

— Of the regular heroin users, most were male, half were between 18 and 24 years old, most used other drugs and most were members of minority groups.

The report was submitted by commission chairman Milton Luger.

He said the study was made on persons of various ages, ethnic origins and educational backgrounds.

NOTICE OF CHANGE IN GAS RATE SCHEDULE

On June 11, 1971, Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation filed with the Public Service Commission of the State of New York amendments to gas rate schedule P.S.C. No. 11—Gas, to become effective July 29, 1971. Said amendments propose the addition of a Feul Oil Price Adjustment clause whereby rates stated in Service Classification Nos. 3, 4 and 5 would be subject to an increase of 0.0160 cents per 100 cubic feet of gas for each one cent increase per barrel in the quoted oil price of #6 fuel oil. The Fuel Oil Price Adjustment will reflect only the oil price increase above the specified base price that is in excess of the Purchased Gas Cost Adjustment.

Your Horoscope

Friday, June 25

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The only benefits coming today or tonight can be through some unexpected condition through which you are able to turn some difficulty to your advantage. Some people will believe their pride is being attacked, so watch your words carefully and show understanding to everyone.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You had better carry through with your important work instead of trying to go out for recreation since the planets are not good for this. Use kind words with others instead of resorting to angry ones.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Kin are complaining because you have not shown enough affection, so take some time for this. Getting rid of prejudices you may have will bring the harmony you want, also. Steer clear of those who are hypocritical.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Much care in motion is most necessary today, especially when driving. Keep your purse zipped so that you do not spend money foolishly. Generosity to kin is fine, though.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You are tempted to invest too much in something that might be highly risky, so test it with a very small amount first. That business expert you usually follow is not up to par right now, so be wary. Go out socially in p.m.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You feel in an irate mood and could lash out at others mercilessly, so calm down and think things over carefully. Await a better day for any comments you want to make. Then speak diplomatically.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have private worries that could get you off balance if you do not look at them objectively and do something constructive about them. A good friend needs help. Give it willingly and you ease own burdens as well.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) It would be better to handle loyal friends loyally and not be so excited over new-found friends who could easily have unsuspected flaws. Not a good day for entertaining bigwigs or those who mean a good deal to you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't take any risks where your reputation is concerned and make sure you do nothing to irk one who means much to you. Steer clear of others who may want to con you. Permitting others to critize is not good.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Not a good day for jumping into new projects, but fine for further study of them. Look for the data you need in your daily paper or other good sources. Make sure you show others that you are dependable.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Use your good judgement with those important to your success and happiness and don't rely on hunches which are erroneous now. Mate may be in an irate mood. Don't argue and all will blow over nicely.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) An associate is too demanding today so do only that which you can and explain your actions to promote understanding. Don't resort to temper. Then you get excellent results and all is well.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get busy and complete whatever work you have to do; put off amusements until p.m. Be more careful where wardrobe is concerned, or you can damage it. Take it easy tonight. Some reading is fine.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those interesting young people who will want to be complimented for every little thing done, but compliment only for what is truly worthy of praise and then your child will do even better. This youngster will be one of those persons who thinks big benefits will come with every little effort to achieve them, so teach while young the importance of work and then the high ideas here can be put into successful accomplishments. Don't neglect the religious side of this nature.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

One of the nicest things about Friday is that you have it to look forward to all week long.

* * *

Thankfully, almost no one returns "borrowed" chewing gum.

* * *

He who exults about Maytime doesn't own a 150-foot lot that needs mowing three times a week.

* * *

Carry a chip on your shoulder and someone is sure to knock your block off.

* * *

If you can recall when, be careful not to do it too often.

People who carry a rabbit's foot for good luck forget what happened to the bunny.

* * *

Picture on our credit card is saving us a lot of money. One look at it and then one at us, and no one will honor the thing.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

SQUELCHED: (Q.) I love to talk to people. But when I give my opinions to my parents they tell me I'm too young to talk so much. If I insist on saying something they tell me I'm wrong and to be quiet.

My friends won't listen to me either.

I'm tired of listening and being told to be quiet. I want somebody to talk with. Can you help me?—13 in Columbus, Ohio.

(A.) Maybe you have been a little too eager to display your knowledge. Maybe this has turned people off.

Try very hard to listen more and talk less. You can learn things listening—good solid things that will make you interesting to listen to later, when your time comes.

Waiting to talk till your time comes pays off.

STEP-TROUBLE: (Q.) I'm in trouble. I like my stepbrother. I guess you could call him that.

We don't live together. His father lives here, with my mother and me. He's married to my mother.

My stepfather's son lives with his mother and her husband. I hardly knew about him till he called one day to talk to his father.

We got to be friends over the telephone. Then we started meeting each other. He gave me his bracelet. My mother found out and told me she guessed we could see each other but that we mustn't let his father know. She said he'd be furious.

She doesn't know how serious we are. Should I break up with him?—All Mixed Up in California.

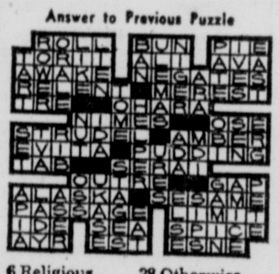

(A.) You two have no blood relationship. So it is all right for you to date, and even marry, if it comes to that point.

If you continue to go together, however, the boy should talk to his father and his mother and get all the facts out in the open for everybody to know.

Very Little Originality

NEW YORK (AP) — Alcoholism seems to have been pushed to the back of a high television shelf since the dramatic emergence of the problem of widespread narcotics addiction.

ABC sought Wednesday night—regretfully without much originality—to return the spotlight to what narrator Frank Reynolds called the nation's number one health problem.

Many of the statistics were tossed into the hour. There are an estimated nine million alcoholics in the nation; 26,000 died last year in accidents related to excessive drinking; there are probably two or three alcoholics in every city block, most of them undiscovered and untreated.

Although much has been written and spoken about what one medical specialist called "a chronic disease," there is still a social stigma connected with it, with the result that vast numbers of sufferers are never revealed and, consequently, fail to receive help and treatment in time.

The alcoholic and his problem to himself, family and employer, have been under study for almost half a century. While the cause of this type of addiction is still unknown, it can be arrested, but only by the victim himself.

ABC covered a lot of familiar territory in TV's standard documentary form. There was the nurse—describing her days as an "obsessive, compulsive drinker" to a group therapy gathering of fellow sufferers. There were the shots taken in a hospital showing older men, some derelicts from the nation's skid rows, whose health and often mental capacity had been destroyed by alcohol.

CBS and Walter Cronkite achieved an exclusive interview with the elusive Daniel Ellsberg, Massachusetts Institute of Technology research expert widely credited with turning over the so-called "Pentagon papers" to journalistic sources.

Ellsberg, in a taped interview at an undisclosed location, refused to talk about his own part, if any, in starting the battle between government and press.

He spoke long and soberly about his concern about Vietnam and about his own feeling of American leaders' responsibilities and the public's right to know.

Portions were shown on the early evening news program and in greater detail during a hastily scheduled half-hour special in the late evening.

Opening lead—♦ Q

Y and Z arrived a trifle late for the weekly duplicate. They found that A and B and taken their customary North-South seats.

B, sitting South, offered to move but Z said, "Go ahead and see what you can do. Maybe the cards will run East and West for a change."

B's face lit up when he looked at his first hand. Barring a miracle, he was going to have Y and Z defending against him.

When A raisedd him to two spades, B went right to game. His cards warranted it. Y, sitting West, opened the queen of diamonds and continued with the five. Z won and returned a low heart. Dummy's Queen won the trick and B made the correct lead of the five spades from dummy.

Z played the king and B won with the ace.

"What fun it is to be declarer," said B. Then he led the duece of spades and called for the nine from dummy. Z produced the 10. While B made the rest of the tricks for his contract, he knew his score would be close to bottom.

"How was I to know?" moaned B.

"You couldn't," replied Z. "However, if your memory is really good, you may recall making that very play against me in one of Carl Robertson's columns around 1925. What's more, it worked just as well that time."

Draft Future Remains in Doubt

WASHINGTON (AP) — The future of the military draft remained in doubt today, less than a week before it is scheduled to expire, despite a rare Senate vote to prevent a filibuster against extending it.

Pleased with the addition of an amendment to the draft bill urging a complete U.S. withdrawal from Indochina, enough moderate doves joined pro-draft forces Wednesday to produce the required two-thirds majority in a 65-27 vote to limit debate.

The bill now is expected to pass the Senate but it must go to a House-Senate conference to work out differences, then be passed again by both houses in identical form before it is ready for the President's signature.

There were warnings after the cloture vote Wednesday that some of the doves who voted to limit debate might turn around and refuse to prevent a renewed filibuster if the pullout amendment is removed in conference, where a majority is thought to oppose it.

Thus, it is uncertain if the bill can pass before the draft expires midnight June 30.

The leader of the Senate anti-draft forces, Democratic Mike Gravel of Alaska, said he was surprised by the vote to limit debate.

He attributed it in part to passage Tuesday of an amendment by Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana. It urges the President to pull all U.S. forces out of Vietnam in nine months if all American prisoners are released.

But if the Mansfield amendment does not survive conference, Gravel said, "I certainly would expect many of the amendment's supporters to join me in renewed efforts to filibuster the draft bill when it is returned to the Senate."

Acting Republican Leader Robert P. Griffin of Michigan said chances are the conference will kill the amendment, which he described as "a kind of Mickey Mouse political operation to try to take credit away from the President . . ."

Voting to limit debate were 11 southern Democrats, traditional foes of anti-filibuster measures, as well as Democratic presidential prospects Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, Edmund S. Muskie of Maine and Henry M. Jackson of Washington. Three other Democratic prospects, George S. McGovern of South Dakota Harold Hughes of Iowa and Birch E. Bayh of Indiana voted to continue debate.

In other votes Wednesday, the Senate approved 50-38, an amendment by Griffin to exempt from the draft doctors who agree to practice for at least four years in regions such as rural areas and big-city ghettoes where there is an acute doctor shortage.

N. Viets Capture Key Base

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnamese troops today captured Fire Base Fuller, key to the entire allied defense line below the 50-mile-long Demilitarized Zone (DMZ). The South Vietnamese had said it 'must be held at all costs."

A force of 1,800 South Vietnamese troops supported by U.S. 352 bombers, rocket-firing helicopters and fighter-bombers immediately launched a counter-attack.

Field reports said a force of 1,500 North Vietnamese seized Fuller, five miles south of the DMZ after capturing mortars on the base's northern perimeter and turning them on the South Vietnamese defenders and a handful of American advisers, three of whom were missing after the base fell.

The Communists then began shelling Camp Carroll and Fire Base Sarge, two nearby American outposts, the reports said. South Vietnamese commanders had said the North Vietnamese appeared to be trying to break through in an attempt to get at the two U.S. bases.

Allied intelligence reports said the North Vietnamese have moved perhaps as many as 12,000 troops into the rugged country just below the DMZ in the past few weeks, possibly for a showdown struggle this fall aimed at influencing the South Vietnamese presidential election Oct. 3.

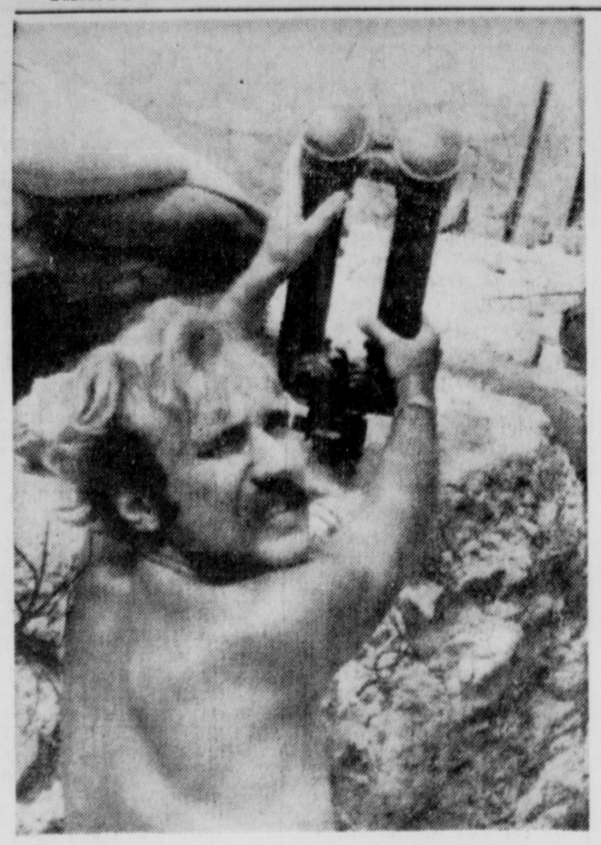

A military spokesman in Saigon said Fuller itself was "not important" but it could be considered so "because it is part of a system of base camps which are designed to defend that (northernmost) part of South Vietnam."

The South Vietnamese had ordered the base held "at all costs."

The U.S. command announced meanwhile that 25 Americans died in fighting last week, the same number as the previous week. Another 14 were dead from noncombat causes. It brought to 45,300 the total Americans killed in the war.

Meanwhile, according to The Associated Press the Cambodian military command reported today that the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong are pulling out of the Vihear Suol marshes east of Phnom Penh. But it said there still are pockets of enemy resistance.

Lt. Col. Am Rong, the Cambodian spokesman, said intelligence reports indicate that two regiments of the North Vietnamese 9th Division are withdrawing to the east and northeast after almost a month of fighting some 12 miles from the capital.

VITAL BASE — U. S. Soldier uses periscope binoculars to spot the enemy during a mortar attack by Communist forces on Firebase Fuller, South Vietnam, just below the demilitarized zone (DMZ). The base has been under continuous shelling since June 19. A South Vietnamese officer said today Fuller "must be held at all costs," otherwise the North Vietnamese would be free to attack Camp Carrol, Firebase Sarge and other American bases nearby. GI's Death Blamed to Bungling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The blame for the death of Army Specialist Brian P. Russell, who died in the explosion of an enemy mine in Vietnam early this year, was laid to Army bungling Wednesday by Rep. John H. Terry, R-N.Y.

Russell, 21, of the Cayuga County community of Port Byron, N.Y., was a once-wounded GI who was returned early to the war zone because of 14 instances in which the Army erred in processing his records, Terry said.

"...There is no way of determining how many Brian Russell's went to an early death as a result of administrative error" or inadequate medical care Terry said. He called for a massive overhaul of the Army's personnel and administrative procedures.

The young soldier was sent back to Vietnam in September of 1970, when he was not due there until Jan. 21 — a week after his death.

A six-month investigation by Terry, a Syracuse Republican, and his staff revealed that Russell was released from the Ft. Devens, Mass. Army Hospital without proper records and later was sent to Vietnam in apparently questionable physical condition.

"He was not eligible for reassignment to Vietnam then because of the time factor alone — forgetting about his injuries," Terry told a news conference.

"Russell was released from the hospital on Jan. 21, 1970 and that should have been the date of adjusted return from overseas duty," Terry said. "Therefore, the earliest date he would have been eligible to be sent back to a second tour in Vietnam was Jan. 21, 1971 and he was killed on Jan. 15."

Medina Hearing: Three Denials

FT. MCPHERSON, Ga. (UPI)—Three colonels denied Wednesday they threatened a soldier unless he testified against Capt. Ernest L. Medina, the commander of the U.S. Army company at My Lai.

The three testified during a hearing on a defense motion to have Medina's case thrown out on grounds of improper command influence. F Lee Bailey and other defense attorneys have offered 17 other motions for dismissal of charges against Medina.

Col. Robert E. Miller, chief of the Army Military Justice Division at the Pentagon; Col. Henry J. Olk, Staff Judge Advocate at Ft. Riley, Kan.; and Col. Charles H. Curtis, chief of staff at Ft. Carson, Colo., each denied theatening S. Sgt. Charles Lacroix.

Lacroix contended Monday that Olk and Miller offered him immunity from charges for his alleged involvement in the massacre at My Lai on March 16, 1968, and that Curtis warned him not to speak for the defense in testimony before a military commission investigating atrocities.

But Olk said he did not remember Lacroix and, "I don't think I would recognize Sgt. Lacroix if I saw him.

"I never offered him any immunity and never saw any prospective charge sheet against him," Olk added.

Curtis denied that he had ever suggested that Lacroix not speak up for the defense. He added that he had seen Lacroix only one time, and on that occasion had advised him not to talk to reporters.

Miller said he could not recollect meeting Lacroix but that his testimony showed he did question Lacroix before the commission's hearing in Washington.

YOUR VOLUNTEER ARMY TEAM

Sgt. Gary Flaherty

Sgt. Sam Atkins

Today's Army Team has more to offer than ever before in the history of the United States. Everything promised is backed-up in writing BEFORE you enlist. The NEW ARMY lets you decide what you want and where you want to go before you enlist. The Army now has a Delayed Entry Program for a period of six months which gives the young man the opportunity to receive a promotion before reporting to Basic Training. Why not call us today at 338-7904 or mail the coupon below for information about hundreds of options available. Enlistment periods for 2, 3, and 4 year periods. TODAY'S ARMY WANTS TO JOIN YOU.

Send me information on Today's New Modern Volunteer Army.
